

$1.58 milli Venice school budget

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

The Venice Board of Education, in continuing its fight against perennial financial problems, Monday night adopted a tentative budget of $1,581,425 to operate the Venice public schools in 1981-82, an increase of 2.7 percent over last year's figure.

A public hearing and formal adoption of the budget to follow are scheduled at 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 14.

The total budget, up $41,579 from 1980-81, reflects the sum of $41,000 in Title I funds which are reimbursable from federal and state sources.

The Venice School District received $157,497 in Title VI funds during the 1980-81 fiscal year, which ended June 30, and more than $1.8 million since the program was inaugurated in 1974. The funding will not be renewed this year.

In addition, board members gave approval to a $610,675 tentative budget for Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, the adult vocational school, which is financed with federal and state funds, but administered by the Venice School Board.

The total budget for Venice-Lincoln and the Venice public schools amounts to $2,192,104, an increase of $100,437 over the $2,091,663 budgeted in 1980-81.

Venice Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers, in presenting the tentative budget to the board, commented, "I see no reason we cannot operate the district this coming year if we continue to act conservatively. Keeping in mind that we are trying to operate the district for more than the one year period."

He noted a total of $269,000 was authorized last year for anticipation warrants in the education fund, but only $144,000 in warrants was utilized.

This amount, however, must be repaid this year, he noted, plus $20,000 in advance warrants issued in the building fund.

Projected in the new budget is a total of $268,817 in anticipation warrants.

The new public school budget shows anticipated revenues, next year of $1,600,976 in all funds, a credit of $19,553 compared to estimated expenditures.

The $19,553 amount shows, however, due to estimated balances of $11,908 in bonds and interest, $2,465 in transportation and $5,180 in municipal retirement funds, Supt. Vickers explained.

The deficit occurs when tax anticipation warrants figured in the tentative budget are deducted from the total revenue, estimated as available, and debts from the 1980-81 school year are included.

In the public schools' separate funds, three reflect decreases this year and three show higher amounts.

The funds listing the new budget figures, last year's figures in parentheses and the differences shown in sequence, are:

Education—$1,301,085, ($1,257,995), up $43,090; operating, building and maintenance—$161,000 ($147,281), up $13,719; bonds and interest—$32,275 ($38,225), down $5,950; transportation—$56,360, ($63,850), down $7,490; municipal retirement—$21,980 ($27,295), down $5,315; and working cash—$6,325 ($5,400), up $1,125.

Supt. Vickers said added expenditures are expected this year in the building fund from higher utility rates and also in the transportation fund with the loss of the manpower employees who worked as bus drivers.

Board President Jack Tolliver reported during a weekend meeting in Chicago, Governor James Thompson said to expect some more cuts in the state budget, but added he will support the state education fund to the best of his ability.

In other action, the board awarded a contract to Butler Floor Co. of Granite

GC budget is down $1.3 million

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

After weeks of study, debate, disagreement, worry and deadline pressures, Granite City finally has its budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year. The finalized budgets appear in detail in a legal publication elsewhere in today's Press-Record.

The new budget package, which was approved by the city council Tuesday night, totals $12,422,517, down $1.3 million from the $13,726,725 budgets in the previous fiscal year. The reduced figures, coupled with a deficit of approximately $700,000 from the previous fiscal year, have made it necessary for the city to have 31 persons on layoff or retirement status, at the present time, which has been at the center of much of the debate.

A few of those laid off may be rehired immediately and others may resume their duties when new tax monies are received in October, but the majority of the 31 are not likely to be asked to return to the city. The "bare bones" budgets passed by the city council Tuesday night make no provisions for paying them.

Complicating the financial problems is the necessity of repaying the principal and interest on $12.4 million the city has borrowed in order to get the "bare bones" budgets. The new tax collection time, which will be about two months late this year.

The city first borrowed $300,000 in a commercial bank loan and later borrowed $900,000 in tax anticipation warrants which must be repaid "off the top" from the new tax monies, when they are received, before other city bills and payrolls can be paid.

The need to budget for repayment of those loans, plus interest, drove the new general fund in the 1981-82 budget over the total for that fund in the previous year, despite mandated 10 to 20 percent cuts in the budget for most city departments.

The new general fund budget totals $8,469,018, up $1.1 million from the $7,362,086 budgeted in that fund in the 1980-81 fiscal year, which ended April 30, 1981.

The budget for expending community development grant funds is down slightly, from $1,431,497 last fiscal year to $1,414,881 in the budget adopted Tuesday night.

Due primarily to increased costs of electricity and of treatment chemicals, the budget for the sewage treatment plant rose this fiscal year, despite cuts in manpower and in other areas. A total of $1,830,757 is budgeted for operation of the primary and secondary sewage treatment plants, up from $1,634,860 in the previous fiscal year, but the new budget is expected to be "a balanced budget" with income matching expenditures, according to Alderman Warren Decatur, chairman of the council's treatment plant committee.

New revenues for treating sewage from the Four Township sewer system through Namooki, Chouteau and Venice townships helped balance that budget and made it possible to begin depositing funds into required reserve and depreciation budgets, which had not been done before, Decatur explained.

The slow drying up of the revenue sharing program is witnessed in this year's budget of $707,880, which is down $60,422 from the $768,292 budgeted in the 1980-81 fiscal year.

Last year's budget was swelled by an additional budget of $2,390,000 for construction of the 19th Street overpass. No budget for the overpass has been approved, thus far, for the 1981-82 fiscal year, but David Nolan, administrative aide for Mayor Paul Schuler, said that if it is necessary to budget for that purpose, the budget will be under $500,000, since the major cost of the construction has already been paid.

The city also may approve a budget between now and September for expending its motor fuel taxes, which total approximately $675,000 each year. In the last fiscal year, $673,334 was budgeted for the motor fuel tax fund. There is no legal requirement for passing the overpass or motor fuel tax

What is a utility tax?

With the Granite City Council now considering imposing a utility tax or utility taxes to help support a budget which is badly overstretched and cannot be supported with the current city income, aldermen say they have been receiving phone calls from constituents asking what a utility tax is and what it will cost them.

Madison recently imposed a five percent tax on gas, electricity, phones and water. Venice has had a three-percent tax on all four utility services since 1979 and Pontoon Beach has had utility taxes of one-half of a percent on gas, electricity and water for years.

Simply, a utility tax is a small percentage increase on a utility bill, plus a few cents for utility collection and bookkeeping involved with computing and billing the tax.

For example, Granite City is considering a one percent tax on electricity. If a home has an electric bill for October of $50 and a one percent tax has been imposed by Oct. 1, the homeowner will be billed $50.54 by Illinois Power. The city then would receive 50 cents and the power company would receive 4½ cents, or .09 of a percent of the tax, according to Carl Mathias, service area manager for Illinois Power.

Mathias explained that the percentage retained by the company is set by the Illinois Commerce Commission and rises as the percentage of the tax rises. On a five percent utility tax, such as is collected by Madison for gas and electricity, the company receives .44 of one percent.

He said that charge covers the charges of billing, collecting and of the survey and bookkeeping changes necessary to determine which customers are in the city limits and which are outside and should not be charged.

He noted the average residential bill for homes with air conditioning is $673.54 per year, or $56.13 per month, while the average residential bill for those using about 3,522 kilowatt hours of electricity per year is $210.35, or $17.53 per month.

For the average user with air con-

Abandoned baby found at SEMC is doing 'well'

Gerri Elizabeth July is the name given to a baby girl found Monday morning on the third floor of the parking garage at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The baby was approximately two to four days old when found wrapped in a blanket and placed in a paper bag lying in a parking space in the garage.

Gerri Elizabeth is named after the woman who found her, the medical center and the month in which she was found.

Initially thought to be in good health, Gerri Elizabeth was transferred to Cardinal Glennon Hospital in St. Louis Tuesday at 4:45 a.m. when signs of an infection were detected. She had been listed in fair, but stable condition, but was in good condition this morning. There were no indications of infection, according to a hospital spokesman.

The baby was taken off of oxygen Wednesday and was fed formula for the first time. No other complications are anticipated.

Shortly before 10 a.m. Monday, Gerri Stone, a biology lab supervisor, drove into the garage and parked. Everything was as usual until she got out of her car and began walking to the elevators. That is when she first heard a small peeping noise coming from a grocery bag in a nearby parking space.

She first thought that a bird or other small animal had gotten trapped in the bag. As she walked towards the bag it began to move and then she saw a small hand come out. She remembered saying to herself, "Oh, my God, it's a baby!"

Pilot hurt as aircraft crashes near Lakeside

An ultralight aircraft, powered by a single, two-cycle engine, crashed into a corn field near Lakeside Airport on Highway 111 at 8:30 Wednesday morning, injuring the craft's pilot.

Larry Carter, 36, of Mehlville, Mo., lost control of his ultralight aircraft—a cross between an airplane and hang glider—just after take-off from the airport and plummeted from about 150 to 200 feet to the corn field in a spiral pattern, according to a witness.

The aircraft flipped end-over-end at least once before coming to rest.

"The witness, also an ultralight aircraft pilot, said that the accident was caused by 'complete pilot error,' and that the engine of the aircraft should have been turned off immediately which would have allowed the pilot to regain control easily. The engine was still running for a few seconds after the crash, the witness noted.

Carter was rescued from the crash scene by Granite City ambulance personnel with the aid of members of the Long Lake Fire Department and was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center complaining of pain to both ankles and his back. X-rays were taken and he was treated for his injuries and later was admitted. He remains in satisfactory condition.

No salary hikes in Madison

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Although no raises are being granted to any city employees at this time, the new city budget provides salary hikes if money becomes available at a future date during the 1981-82 fiscal year.

The new budget is for $3,651,672, a decrease of $93,613 from the 1980-81 budget of $3,745,285.

The entire budget will be published in detail in Monday's Press-Record.

For the most part, the new budget is close to that of the 1980-81 fiscal year, allowing slight increases caused by a normal rise in prices, according to a city spokesman.

It was noted that amounts in a city budget does not mean the city has the money to spend for a particular project, but items like salary increases must be included should the money become available.

The General Fund summary indicates an increase of $58,102, from $1,233,370 in 1980-81 to $1,391,472 for the 1981-82 year.

The new budget shows other funds are down a total of $151,715 from $1,811,915 in 1980-81 to $1,660,200 for the new fiscal year.

With the 1980-81 figure followed by the new 1981-82 budget figure, a general fund summary shows the following:

Venice may sue over fire claim

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

A law suit against Madison County officials, including Thomas Hildebrand, associate judge of the Third Judicial Circuit, and Don Weber states attorney for Madison County, over payment of a fire call made by the Venice Fire Department appears inevitable, according to Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols.

Echols told the Venice council Tuesday night the department has not been paid the $300 due and he has turned the matter over to the city legal department for suit.

The fire in question occurred April 2, and allegedly threatened the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, 115 S. Roosevelt St., in Nameoki Township, near Eagle Park Acres.

Since Venice refused to respond when it was not in their fire jurisdiction, Weber allegedly had Judge Hildebrand issue a court order requiring the Madison fire department to respond. Madison called Venice for assistance under a mutual aid agreement and Venice responded.

Long Lake, Brooklyn and National City fire departments all refused to respond due to possible insurance problems that originally caused Venice and Madison not to respond until the court order.

A letter, dated May 27, 1981, from Marshall H. Smith, assistant state's attorney, to Judge Hildebrand, was read in part to the Venice council Tuesday by Echols. It stated: "I think that the law is very clear that the adjoining fire districts had no responsibility to put out this fire. Further, there is some law, I think, that if they do get out of their districts and they have trouble within the district they might be liable for damage that might occur in their absence. So, they were as right as rain in staying away."

"Taking the law by the seat of my pants, I think there is a law to the effect that the proper authorities have the right to destroy property and maybe do whatever is necessary to avoid further loss by a fire. Fortunately, I have never had to get into this situation until now."

Echols then read a letter from Christ N. Pashoff, supervisor of Venice Township, stating that Venice Township, effective Aug. 1, will terminate its agreement with the City of Venice to pay for fire protection services and fire calls in "Eagle Acres and the Eagle Park area."

Alderman John Ervin, chairman of the aldermanic fire committee, asked his committee to remain after the council meeting to discuss the fire protection situation.

"One thing I can not understand, the county under the law, as I understand it, should furnish ambulance service to

Madison County has highest June traffic fatality rate

Of 11 traffic fatalities occurring during June in State Police District 11, which includes the Quad Cities, seven occurred in Madison County while three of the fatalities were in St. Clair County and one in Clinton County, according to a report released this week.

The report shows a total of 869 traffic deaths in the state during the first six months of the year, with 164 occurring during June. A total of 477 of the total 869 deaths occurred in accidents reported in rural areas, the State Police department said.

Traffic deaths in District 11 during the first six months of the year totaled 64, an increase of one over the same period last year.

Only three states in America saw highway fatalities decline each year since 1977—Illinois, Alaska and New Mexico, the report said.

Since 1977, Illinois fatalities have declined 8.1 percent while such fatalities have increased 4.2 percent nationally, the report added.

Capt. Glenn Huffman, commander of District 11, said he believes that the use of the Concentrated Speed Enforcement Program and the Concentrated Traffic Enforcement Program are positive factors which helped the Illinois State Police maintain a declining trend in highway fatalities.

Governor James R. Thompson announced Monday he has promoted Arthur A. Weller Jr. of Northbrook to brigadier general in the Illinois Army National Guard. Gen. Thompson also named Col. Harold A. Miller of Joliet to replace Weller as commander of the Illinois National Guard Command and Control Headquarters in Chicago.

Urges regular eye exams for younger children

By MARY RICHARDS

The most common childhood eye problem is a condition known as "lazy eye blindness." The medical term is amblyopia ex anopia ('am ble' o pe-ah ex uh nop see-ah). Amblyopia is the result of a child's inability to develop central or reading vision in one eye. It affects approximately three to four percent of all children in the United States.

Most people are not aware of it, but a child is not born with 20-20 vision. He has to learn to see during the first six to seven years of life. Your child is born with side or peripheral vision, but central or reading vision must be acquired.

Only by constant repetition of the process of seeing and concentrating on small objects does central vision develop in the eyes. If each eye does not learn to see during the first six or seven years of life, the opportunity to learn how to see may be gone forever.

Amblyopia can be difficult to detect, for a child with amblyopia frequently can see well with one eye; so his parents usually are not aware that he child is using only one eye. As a result, his first vision screening may not be given until he enters school, and this may be too late.

We recommend that your child be given a simple screening test between the ages of three to five. This test will identify the child who is using only one eye.

The usual treatment for amblyopia is a simple patching of the good eye which forces the child to use the weaker eye. In some cases, covering the good eye is combined with corrective lenses. Occasionally surgery is required, but usually exercising the eye corrects the problem.

Since many vision problems, such as amblyopia, are not easily detectable, each child has a vision screening several times during his or her school career. The purpose of these screenings is to identify children who may have a vision problem and need a professional eye examination. When eye defects are found and treated early, eye strain and permanent loss of eyesight may be prevented.

If your child does not pass the screening, then you will be notified and asked to take your child to an eye doctor for a professional eye exam. These screenings are not a substitute for professional examinations by an optometrist or ophthalmologist. Even if your child passes the vision screening given at school, you can't assume that he or she does not need an eye examination. Regular eye checkups are recommended for everyone, regardless of age.

If you have further questions about the vision screening program, contact the Illinois Department of Public Health, Division of Health Promotion and Screening, Vision and Hearing Screening Program, 535 West Jefferson, Springfield, IL 62761.

Strongarm robberies

A youth about 18 years old who was wearing blue jeans and no shirt is being sought for one or both of two strongarm robberies Monday afternoon.

At 1 p.m., he grabbed a tan clutch purse from the hand of Mrs. Lula Kowalski, 2421 Madison Ave., as she was walking in the 2400 block of Grand Avenue. It contained keys and $20.

The robber, whose hair had blond streaks, fled north on Grand and then west on 25th Street.

At 2:20 p.m. Monday, a teenager of somewhat similar description but with almost shoulder-length brown hair grabbed a brown paper bag from Tony Mitchell, 11, who was riding a bicycle to deliver newspapers in the 1700 block of Pontoon Road. The bag normally contained funds that had been collected, but was empty because he had just started his route.

The youth ran down an alley between Pontoon Road and Mitchell Avenue and escaped.

SUFFERS ARM INJURY

Ronald Davis, 4061 Kathy Drive, Pontoon Beach, suffered an arm injury when shoved against his parked auto near 24th and State streets shortly before 1 a.m. today. The arm was placed in a sling when he was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Any donations, large or small, may be taken to the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave., or donors may call 876-7200 for pickup service. Mrs. Alford said.

AN OPEN LETTER

To the People of the Quad-Cities:

I have practiced in Granite City with honor and integrity for 30 years. In that time I have cared for many families, including parents, children and children's children. I have enjoyed your trust and am grateful for your confidence.

I always offered the best I could in health care, in the best possible surroundings.

If I felt I could not help someone, I sought the cure they needed from other health professionals. The welfare of the individual was always my primary concern.

In February 1981 I became aware of a situation I felt would compromise the things I believed in and I left the Granite City office.

When the people that put their trust in me know the facts they will know I could do nothing less.

I could only help the situation by leaving.

Pleads guilty to arson charge

Lawrence D. Hasty, 18, of VFW Lane in State Park Place, pleaded guilty Monday to arson in connection with an incident which ended in the Mitchell area May 1. He is to be sentenced Aug. 27.

Hasty allegedly abducted John E. Haverman, 35, Collinsville, at gunpoint from the parking lot of Grandpa's Store on Collinsville Road near Fairmont Park Racetrack and was forced to drive to a gravel road north of Interstate 270 near Route 111, where Haverman was shot four or five times with a large-caliber handgun and the gunman drove away in his car.

Haverman walked approximately one-half mile before he was able to flag down a passing motorist, who took him to St. Elizabeth

Medical Center.

Hasty and another man then allegedly stripped Haverman's auto and set fire to it several miles from the scene of the shooting.

Hasty originally was charged with attempted murder, armed robbery and arson. He was allowed to plead guilty to the arson charge and is being held without bond in the Madison County Jail.

Venice may sue

Aldermen Philip Daniels and Victor Valentine Sr. cast the opposing votes.

Both aldermen said that they would have liked to study an audit and see what the city actually spent before approving a new budget.

In a discussion Mayor Echols explained that just because an item is listed in the budget does not mean that money will be spent or that the city even will have that amount of money, but that unless the city plans ahead and puts items of projected expenditure in the budget, the money cannot be spent even if it becomes available.

The complete 1981-82 budget will be published Monday in the Press-Record.

Labor questions city cuts

The Tri-City Trades and Labor Council is concerned about "the deteriorating conditions" that have engulfed the city of Granite City.

The council by a six to two vote approved the 1981-82 city budget which is only $2,786 higher than last year.

some reservations about the management and funding of the operation of the city.

Have we fallen behind in all areas?" the letter said.

The council received the letter, but not with great favor, as indicated in the remarks of some of the aldermen.

Alderman Paul Fisk noted that two city-wide cleanup programs have just been completed to remove trash and rubbish and he asked, "Is our street department supposed to be on call to clean out garages and carports?"

Mayor Paul Schuler contended that Reiske "tends to over-dramatize the situation," but noted, "I'm sure there is still some junk left around."

Fisk said that since the recent cleanups, he has seen people throwing tree limbs and brush in the alleys and along the curbs. He said he feels the council should consider cracking down on those who litter the alleys and curbs, rather than hiring their own trash and limb haulers.

Superintendent of Streets Lionel Portell has noted that limb and brush pickups is one of the services of his department that has been halted due to the cutbacks

We have been studying both Certificates of Deposit and Money Market Funds to try and determine where our small amount of investment capital would be best placed, and one thing bothers us: We can easily find out the reserves the bank maintains to back a CD, but what reserves do money market funds require to carry?

A. None. Although banks are required by federal regulation to maintain certain reserves in order to back or guarantee the depositor's investments in Certificates of Deposit, no such state or federal regulation exists which would require management of a money market fund to state or provide reserves. The reserve requirement for banks are regulated by the Federal Reserve Board and are, by law, published periodically for the information of depositors and the general public.

Panel appointed for complaints on car repairs

Panel members have been appointed for an Automotive Consumer Action Program (AUTOCAP) panel to hear consumer complaints on auto warranties and repairs made by franchised automobile and truck dealers in Illinois.

Sponsored by the Illinois New Car and Truck Dealers Association, AUTOCAP is endorsed by the National Automobile Dealers Association, the White House Department on Consumer Affairs, the Illinois attorney general, and various consumer organizations.

Four dealers and four public members were chosen, all from the Springfield area.

The panel is expected to hear 20 percent of all complaints filed, the percentage that normally cannot be resolved by direct AUTOCAP intervention between the dealer and the consumer.

Meetings will be held in Springfield at irregular intervals, depending on caseload. Additional panels may be established in other areas of the state if the need arises.

Dealers and consumers involved in panel cases do not attend panel meetings.

Robert Ball, vice-president of operations of the Illinois New Car and Truck Dealers Association, coordinates the work of the panel and logs complaints by consumers. Consumer complaints may be addressed to AUTOCAP, P.O. Box 3045, Springfield, Ill. 62706, telephone 217-753-4513.

Cub Pack 141 fishing derby

Cub Scout Pack 141 of Mitchell School hosted an annual fishing derby at Woodland Park in Collinsville.

Each scout participating provided their own bait and poles with the parents assisting in baiting the hooks. The boys were required to hook and land his own fish in the event.

Trophies were presented to the winners by Cubmaster Jim Richardson at the end of the two hour and 15 minute competition.

Winners included Willie Shaefer, largest fish; Eric LaVette, most fish caught; Joe Wymers, the smallest fish.

After the contest a picnic lunch was enjoyed by all who attended.

John 20:14 . . . "And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus."

Mary Magdalene was in the second greatest crisis of her entire life. The first one being that she was possessed of devils. She had no control over her life. Satan totally dominated her mind. Until she met Jesus. The Saviour cast out the devils and set her free. He gave her back her life. She became His disciple.

Now, at the cemetery, mourning the death of Christ on the cross, she is in the second worst crisis of her life. It is now surprising to find that once again it is Christ who comes to her. He changes her grief to joy.

It is in the troubles and trials, the great crisis of our lives, that Christ can be real to us. If we, like Mary, will turn ourselves, we shall see Him.

Drowning victim's body is recovered

The body of a 15-year-old Granite City youth, who apparently drowned Sunday, July 26, while swimming in the Hartford Canal, was found at 8:55 p.m. Tuesday by members of the Wood River Volunteer Emergency Corps.

Richard Edward Hardester, 2015 Washington Ave., was declared dead at the scene at 9:26 p.m. Tuesday, July 28, 1981, by Madison County Deputy Coroner Edward Besserman.

The youth had been swimming with friends at the Hartford Canal spillway in Lewis and Clark Park, located just west of Route 3 and north of Granite City. His companions told Madison County sheriff's deputies that Richardived to the canal and appeared to become trapped beneath a large log.

Several of his friends tried to free the youth, but their efforts were unsuccessful, police said.

Members of the Alton Volunteer Emergency Corps arrived shortly after 4 p.m. Sunday, and attempted to pull the log out of the water.

The submerged log eventually was removed with a power winch, but the youth's body was not found.

Efforts to recover the body also were made by members of the Granite City Bubblemasters Underwater Recovery Team (BURT).

A spokesman for one of the volunteer groups said the water in the rain-swollen canal was "extremely turbulent."

The current was estimated at 30 miles when usually it's about three miles per hour, the volunteer spokesman said.

Draining operations were instituted Sunday and continued Monday and Tuesday.

The youth's body was found face down in the water about a quarter-mile west of Route 3. There were no visible injuries nor any signs of foul play, the sheriff's office said.

Positive identification was made by Richard's parents, Mrs. Loretta Hardester, 2015 Washington Ave., and George Hardester of Granite City.

Since 1936 at least nine persons have drowned in the swift waters of the drainage canal which empties into the Mississippi River about two miles from the Route 3 bridge over the canal.

Although the canal is considered a hazardous swimming area, it continues to attract persons during the summer months.

Richard had lived in

News notes

The City of Edwardsville may withdraw its effort to preserve the old Madison County Jail if the county government decides to build new administrative offices on that site, 210 N. Main St. The city's lawsuit against the county followed published reports that the county might instead create a parking lot where the 1870 structure stands. Arguments in the suit are scheduled for today.

A possible alternate location for a Madison County administrative building, off Ill. Route 159 just south of Edwardsville, is said to pose a slight risk of mine subsidence; the tract already includes the county's nursing home, tuberculosis clinic and juvenile detention home.

If signed by the governor, new Illinois legislation will allow economically depressed communities to relax licensing, building code and zoning restrictions within free enterprise zones, intended to attract private renovators of blighted areas and revitalize neighborhoods with residential, commercial and industrial development.

The Belleville Area College Chapter, American Association of University Professors, has voted to jointly affiliate with the Illinois Federation of Teachers and American Federation of Teachers as Local 4183.

Fall semester classes will start Aug. 24 at Belleville Area College's daytime instructional center in the former Washington School, 2600 W. 20th St., Granite City, where registration is set for Aug. 31-9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. More than 400 persons attend about 40 courses here each semester. Fall offerings will include introductions to business, data processing, marketing, literature, philosophy, sociology and American government, plus courses in criminology, understanding the arts, accounting, shorthand, business mathematics, typing, real estate transactions, principles of economics, business law, writing lab, emergency medical technician training, rhetoric and composition, U.S. history, health, first-aid and medical self-help, medical terminology, general psychology, child development, fundamentals of speaking, social problems, and basic, intermediate and college algebra.

Legislators and political party chairmen are urging the Illinois legislative redistricting commission to keep counties and townships intact within new legislative districts.

Products containing aspartame, the first sugar substitute to win government approval in 25 years, will begin appearing on store shelves in about six months. It can be used in cereals, drink mixes, instant coffee and tea, gelatin, puddings, pie fillings, dairy products, whipped toppings and chewing gum. It also will be available in table-top form but will not replace saccharin at soft drinks for the time being.

Linda Schermer heads Pontoon Lioness Club

The Lioness Club of Pontoon Beach installed new officers at their fourth annual installation dinner, held at Lions Den II in Pontoon Beach.

Lioness Linda Schermer was sworn in as this year's Lioness Club president by District 1-G Lieutenant Governor Donald Patrick. Other members installed to club offices included Judith Wasson, vice-president; Dolores Kieffer, secretary; Madeline Scott, treasurer; Debbie Durbin, tail-twister; Lioness tamer and Kathy Briggs, Wilma Bowman and Ellen Douglas, members of the board of directors.

Lioness Linda Schermer joined the Pontoon Beach Lioness Club in 1976 as a charter member. She served three years as club treasurer and was then elected secretary in 1980. She has chaired such committees as the pancake breakfast, finance, membership, and decorations.

She also served on the fashion show, ad book, constitution and by-laws, and Halloween parade committees. She is married to Lion David Schermer, immediate past president of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club and has two daughters, Amanda, 3, and Katie, 16 months.

Immediate past president, Lioness Nancy Goodwin, presented club members with certificates of appreciation and president's appreciation award plaques for their support in the past year. After she passed the gavel, Lioness President Linda Schermer presented her with the 100 percent presidents' pin, which is awarded to outstanding presidents by Lions International.

Lioness Cindy Niepert, a past-president, was named Lioness of the Year, she was presented with a Lioness of the Year plaque and charm and one dozen roses by her mother, Lioness Lorraine Niepert.

Also during the evening's events, 13 new members were installed by District 1-G Deputy Governor Clay Brehnan of the Edwardsville Lions Club. The new members are Lionesses Barbara Brawley, Connie Campbell, Sharon Gagech, Edna Hopper, Linda Leleniewski, LaVerne Malzynski, Lorraine Niepert, Pat Nickell, Laura Papp, Nida Peterson, Audrey Ribbing, Pat Smallman and Vicki Stevenson.

The Lioness Club presented Marvin Ribbing of the Long Lake Fire Department with an $800 donation to be used to purchase an oxygen regulator, Keds extraction device, and lateral suction unit. Officer Chet Ballew accepted a check for the Pontoon Beach Police Department of $500 to purchase a new radar gun.

State's lottery tops all of its records in '81

State lottery gross revenues, net revenues and prizes paid to players all reached record levels in the 1981 fiscal year, which ended June 30, and all more than doubled compared to last year's results.

Gross revenues — sales plus interest earned — reached $214.9 million, a 119 percent increase over last year's $98.35 million. The lottery's "profits," the net revenues which are returned to the state's general revenue fund to help support educational and other human services programs, reached $88.3 million, 147 percent over last year's $35.7 million.

Prizes paid to lottery players reached $100.7 million, 120 percent over last year's $45.8 million. The past fiscal year's figures far exceed the previous gross revenues record of $164 million, which the Illinois lottery reached in fiscal 1976, the year when the lottery introduced its first instant game.

Lottery officials attributed the dramatic increase in lottery sales, profits and prizes to the popularity of the computerized daily game, which was introduced in February 1980.

Of the total sales — gross revenues less interest earned — of $213.3 million this past fiscal year, $164 million came from sales of daily game tickets, while sales of instant games totaled $49.3 million.

Sales of the weekly 50 cents and $1 weekly games, which were discontinued several months ago, were $6.8 million.

In the seven years in which the lottery has been in existence in Illinois, it has contributed more than $372 million to the state's general revenue fund, and lottery players have won more than $390 million in prizes.

Total revenues exceed $669 million, and lottery officials expect to reach the $1 billion sales mark in early 1982.

SOUGHT IN BEATING

A 16-year-old Madison boy is being sought in connection with the striking of Pam Wallace, 445 Niedringhaus Ave., at her home approximately 11:30 a.m. Friday. She said the youth came to her door and demanded that she give back a television he had given her. When she refused to admit him, he allegedly kicked the door from its facing, entered, yelled at the victim and her sister and grabbed Pam Wallace's arm. He then struck her face with a fist, took the television set and left, police were told.

State road construction fund squeeze

The state ended its fiscal year June 30 with an available balance in the road fund of $4 million, the lowest year-end balance since fiscal 1972, when it dipped to $21,000.

Proposed new cutbacks in federal highway aid to states could sharply curb new road construction in Illinois — and shift the state to a program of simply maintaining existing roadways for the most part, he warned.

The state comptroller said the low year-end balance means that Illinois has been expending its road revenues to the maximum.

Total road fund revenues in fiscal 1981 climbed to $1.174 billion, up $40 million or 3.5 percent from last year. It was the second consecutive year that total road revenues have topped $1.1 billion.

Almost half of that, $541 million, came from the federal government. Another $46 million came from sales taxes transferred from the general fund.

Total expenditures from the road fund were $1.197 billion, up $38 million or 3.3 percent from fiscal 1980, also topping $1.1 billion for the second straight year.

In a ten-year study, Burris noted that:

— Revenues in 1981 reached $1.174 billion, $483 million or 69.9 percent higher than in 1972.

— Federal highway aid has more than doubled in the decade from $264 million, to $541 million.

— Without the influx of federal funds and the diverting of sales tax money in 1980 and 1981, road fund revenues would have been about $800 million or only about $100 million higher than between 1972 and 1975, and only equal to the 1976-79 period.

— Debt service payments in the decade climbed to $85 million, $80 million higher than in fiscal 1972.

Rainfall 7.8 inches in July

Quand-Cityans who were sweating under drooping conditions this time a year ago have been saturated with more than seven inches of rainfall so far this month, and are more than ready for a "drying out" period.

With only one more day remaining in the month, the area has had a total rainfall so far this month of 7.8 inches, the highest of any single month in recent years.

Normal precipitation for July is 3.20 inches.

The month's rainfall also has brought the total for the year well above the normal.

The 7.81 inches recorded in July brings the total seven-month precipitation to 25.55 inches, compared to a normal of 21.27 inches.

This is 1.79 inches more than the total rainfall for the entire 1980 year of 23.76 inches, against a 12-month normal of 34.40 inches.

As a result, the area ended the 1980 year 10.64 inches below normal.

For the seven months of this year, the total of 25.55 inches is 4.28 inches above the normal of 21.27 inches for the same period.

The wet month of July started on July 5 with a downpour that totaled 1.14 inches over a 24-hour period. On seven subsequent days prior to July 21, rain fell in the area for a month's total of 4.63 inches by the July 21 date.

A series of heavy rains swept the area on each of the seven days following. These included .70 of an inch on July 22; .64 of an inch on July 24; .12 of an inch on July 25; .01 of an inch on July 26; .09 of an inch on July 27 and rounded off with a thunderstorm that dropped another 1.64 inches of rain, the heaviest of the month on July 28.

This accounted for another 3.18 inches of precipitation, which added to the 4.63 inches earlier in the month amounted to the total of 7.81 inches.

Total rainfall in July 1980 amounted to 2.85 inches, compared to a normal of 3.20 inches.

Heavy rainfall also was reported in the Quad-City area in June with 5.14 inches against a normal of 4.27, and in May with 5.91 inches against a normal of 3.73 inches.

Rainfall records for the same months in 1980 show only 2.20 inches in June and 2.23 inches in May.

Abandoned baby

March.

Geri Elizabeth July developed signs of infection Monday night, including a drop in temperature, which necessitated the transfer to the St. Louis hospital. There were reports that the baby also had experienced seizures the night or early Tuesday morning which led to the transfer, but these reports were not confirmed by either hospital.

Who the parents are and their whereabouts is not known, but the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services is trying to ascertain this information for their records. If the mother of the child does not come forward within 30 days the baby may be put up for adoption.

Police reports about the incident included several citizen reports of a woman seen walking carrying a baby in a blanket Monday morning with one report stating that the baby was "covered with blood."

At 7:30 a.m. Monday, a woman was seen walking west on Route 162 near the Granite City Steel plant furnace division carrying an infant. Another report of a similar sighting at 8:05 was not phoned to Granite City police until 10:18.

The caller said that a white female, wearing blue jeans and a light colored top, was seen carrying a baby wrapped in a white blanket on Edwardsville Road toward 20th Street. The woman was approximately five-feet, three or four inches tall and weighed about 125 to 135 pounds.

A third report of a woman carrying a "bloody" baby was relayed by Venice police to the Madison Police Department at 8:26. She was seen walking at Eighth Street and Madison Avenue. Police were unable to locate the woman. The Granite City police report did list as evidence two pieces of infant clothing and a green blanket.

Utility tax?

ditioning (11,465 kwh per year), the bill would rise from $56.13 to $58.74 per month with a one percent utility tax and billing charges, while the smaller average user's monthly charge would rise from $17.53 to $17.72.

The city also is considering a five percent tax on telephone bills. For a home with a $30 telephone bill, a $1.50 tax would be added and the homeowner would be billed for $31.50, plus a few cents for the phone company's billing, if the tax is imposed.

Taxing also is allowed on natural gas and water service, but those are not under serious consideration by Granite City. Mayor Paul Schuler has said that a utility tax on natural gas would impose a heavy burden on industry, which uses a great deal of the area's natural gas supply.

A tax on electricity also is likely to have an adverse effect on industry, which uses well over half of the electric demand in the city.

On the other hand, the homeowners will pay the majority of a tax on telephones, since more than half of the telephone company's accounts are residential in nature, according to Kenneth Evers, manager of Illinois Bell's Granite City office.

Figures supplied by the utilities to the city indicate that a one percent tax on electricity would raise approximately $353,026 per year and a five percent tax on telephone bills would raise approximately $224,731 per year, for a combined total of nearly $578,000 a year. Those taxes would repay most of the $1.2 million the city has had to borrow in a two-year period.

The tax or taxes then could be dropped or could be continued to help support city services and manpower levels.

Schuler said a utility tax on water would not raise enough to be worth imposing it. Illinois-American Water Co. bills customers in the city approximately $2,350 a year, so a one percent tax would raise less than $23,300 a year.

GC budget down

fund budget by July 31, but the general fund and revenue sharing budgets had to be approved by this week, Nolan explained.

The revenue sharing budget approved Tuesday night is primarily for salaries, but some provisions have been made for purchasing (during the various entitlement periods) one police car, a brush hog, paramedic equipment, a computer, fire hoses, a rodding machine and the matching share of a grant for an ambulance. Funds also are appropriated for sidewalk and curb reconstructions and for completing the payments for the updated zoning ordinance. A complete listing is given in Tuesday's legal publication of the budget.

The council made only three changes Tuesday night to the tentative budget which was prepared by the administration. They voted to remove the $600 a year expense allowances for the city clerk and treasurer, saving $1,200; they deleted the $1,000 for travel mileage in the engineering department and they voted to return one of the laid off employees to the street department, adding $21,100 to the budget, which includes insurance and fringe benefits. Street Superintendent Lionel Portell said he is now has only two men on layoff and one man whose layoff has been suspended pending resolution of a union objection.

Those changes in the general fund budget changed the total in that fund from $2,119 to $2,140,000, which was the figure finally adopted.

The general fund, community development and sewage treatment plant budgets were approved on a 12 to 2 vote with Aldermen Decatur and Paul Fisk voting no. All 14 aldermen were present when the vote was taken. The revenue sharing budget was voted on separately and was passed unanimously.

Mayor Schuler summarized the point the city had reached when the budgets were approved, saying, "We have a little breathing room to find out where the funds are coming from," and said he has received legal opinions that any funds raised by any new sources, other than real estate taxes, can be budgeted at a later date.

He said additional funds will be necessary and warned that "austerity" budgets approved Tuesday night do not include "one single dollar for an improvement for salary increases or fringe benefits, although current contracts are up in May, 1982.

Any increases granted are going to have to be made up by new taxes in addition to our current debt."

He indicated that by September, the council is going to have to pass some utility tax, sales tax or work tax or to find funds elsewhere to keep the county from raising by any new sources, other than real estate tax to support the budget.

Tuesday's budget deliberations, which concluded about 10:30 p.m., followed nearly a four-hour working session on the budget during a special meeting Monday night.

Reinstating two of the three laid off policemen.

—Restoring funding for 26 school crossing guards when the new school year begins. That was approved on a 9 to 4 vote with Aldermen Everett Morlen, Decatur, Fisk and Stephen Salich voting no. Alderman Carl Kittel was absent.

Ending expense allowances for all city officials, except the elected officials and the plumbing, heating and electrical inspectors. (The expense allowances of the treasurer and clerk were subsequently deleted.)

—Instructing all department heads to reopen negotiations with the unions representing their employees and see if the unions would be willing to make concessions which would allow more of those laid off to be recalled. Treatment plant employees had already offered to open such talks.

The aldermen also began to explore the effects of a proposed 1.2299 assessment multiplier on the city's financial condition. The study of different ways in which additional funds could be raised without raising property taxes.

Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman summarized the city's crisis, stating, "This is going to be a bad year. When you look at the money picture, it's not there. It's a shame, but it's not there."

Mayor Schuler said that he objects to having been quoted as favoring the imposition of a utility tax. "It was pointed out by the chair (mayor) that the alternative to a utility tax... would necessitate a pretty sizeable increase on the only other source of income and that is the property tax."

He warned that if Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles finds the city's budget out of line with its anticipated income when she applies the tax levy for collection of taxes next summer, she will increase the property tax to support the budget.

Several aldermen said that Miss Bowles will only levy what the city asks her to levy, based upon the figures given to her.

Schuler disagreed, saying, "Evelyn Bowles will go over our levy ordinance and check it against our income and if we haven't levied enough dollars to cover, she will increase that levy. If she feels it is too high, she can arbitrarily decrease that levy. She is responsible also to check those figures. She is the ultimate authority."

He contended that he has seen her make "a lot of changes" in tax levies.

Schuman said the figures prepared by the budget committee show that the city could pass a balanced budget if the aldermen would be willing to let the tax levy increase from .015 ($1.50 per $100 assessed valuation) to .018 ($1.80 per $100) of the assessed valuation. (The city's tax rate 1979, collected in 1980, was $1.517 per $100 assessed valuation, or .01517 of the assessed valuation.)

He said an example is a $30,000 home, assessed at $10,000 (one-third of fair market value), paid $150 in taxes to the city this summer on a rate of .015. The same home would pay $180 in taxes, or $30 a year more, if the rate rose to .018. He said he feels that would be fair, since most assessments are low. "I think our assessments have been maintained at a low value and I don't believe there is anyone here who would sell his house for three times the assessed value," he added.

Alderman Paul Ray Bowler noted that low assessments is the reason that the county's Board of Review has declared a multiplier of 1.2299 against all property in Granite City. That multiplier, when multiplied by an assessment, will yield the new higher assessment against which taxes are to be applied. For example, on the $30,000 home, assessed at $10,000, the multiplier of 1.2299 will be applied to raise that $10,000 assessment to $12,299, upon which the tax rate will be applied.

That would increase the yearly tax bill to the city, based upon a tax rate of .018, to $221.38, rather than the $180 that rate would have raised, had there not been a multiplier applied.

Schuler warned that a tax rate of .018 would not allow the city to repay the approximately $1.2 million it will have borrowed by the time new taxes are received this fall. "It would have to be a heck of a lot higher," the mayor said, contending that rates which have to be more like .025 or .026 in order to repay the loans without a special tax.

Bowler contended that the effect of the multiplier on all property in the city has been considered in the budget discussions, but should be.

He said there are several other ways the city can raise funds, without a utility tax, and suggested that an additional tax under consideration be placed on the November school board election ballot. "Let the people decide," he said.

Mayor Schuler warned that without an additional tax, the city will not be able to support even a bare bones budget. He noted that the current budget proposal has been trimmed to the point where there is no flexibility.

"There are no capital expenditures to speak of, no contingencies for emergencies such as the torn water main March and (a remedy for) all of the layoffs are not included in the present budget. Those who are laid off will undoubtedly remain laid off, unless some new funds are found. There are no funds to call back any employees that I can see," the mayor noted.

He also agreed there is no provision in the budget under consideration for a city controller, which the auditors contend is badly needed.

Alderman Schuman said he has been talking with some legislators and believes that they would give the necessary authority to the city to impose a city earnings tax. Schuler said the earnings tax would require a long waiting time before money was received, while a utility tax would not. "If you levied a utility tax, say Sept. 1, you could begin receiving money by early October. We need the money now," Schuler contended.

Bowler said he is strongly opposed to a utility tax, "because it is taxing the people for what they need to actually survive." He said he also believes the tax would be "a spiraling and inflationary figure and not a constant figure."

Breaking of local ties with MEGSI sad, dangerous

MEGSI's initials do not mean "Maybe Everybody's Going to Smoke It." But that may be what the initials stand for if we do not stop dismantling the proven and effective Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois.

It was sad news, indeed, in the last two weeks as budget stories told of the breaking of the last local link between the Quad-City area and the undercover drug enforcement group. It has provided the only effective deterrent to sales of marijuana and other illicit drugs in this area.

The philosophy of MEGSI is simple. Participating departments donate one of their trained policemen, full-time, and give MEGSI another six percent of his salary for administrative expenses.

The officers assigned to MEGSI change their appearance to fit in with the drug culture and then work undercover where they are needed—anywhere but in their home areas, where they would be more easily identified.

Aided by grant funds, the officers are able to purchase drugs and keep records of their purchases showing what was obtained from which dealers. After the list becomes long enough, MEGSI cooperates with the police in making arrests and making a sweep of arrests of those who sold the drugs to undercover agents.

MEGSI can brag of a very high conviction rate, although most of those who have been caught are the small and middle-level dealers and have been freed on probation. MEGSI officers explain that the probations have not bothered them, since each "bust" leads them closer to the large-scale dealers.

There has been some debate on whether MEGSI has been earning its pay, since drug traffic continues to grow.

But few would debate that about the only thing which was keeping drug pushers looking over their shoulders—and refusing to sell to people who are known as MEGSI—is the all-too-rare visits by the Illinois Division of Criminal Investigation and federal narcotics agents.

Also, budget cuts have hit everywhere and MEGSI has been one of the first "options" the cities and county have found they can cut.

Granite City has withdrawn its officer from MEGSI, as has Madison, Madison County Sheriff Emil Tofant announced last week that his department can no longer afford the "luxury" of keeping a man in MEGSI.

The ties are broken and the handwriting on the wall is clear. The Quad-City area is to be severely hampered in achieving effective enforcement of drug laws.

Any drug pusher can obtain a copy of the annual police calendars and learn the pictures of every local police officer. None of those officers can effectively infiltrate the drug culture and catch the pushers. "Home," we are giving up.

Unlike baseball—where life goes on, win, lose or strike (as the current major league baseball dispute has shown)—the potential impact of losing the drug battle makes it one of the most important games around. It is a game whose outcome is likely to have a serious and long-lasting effect on every life.

Ask residents of several parts of Granite City who watch drug transactions between adults and young teens on their street and you will find a common theme. It really happens, and there is little the local police can do, although they are trying.

We realize the cities have little choice now. It is likely to take tax hikes just to keep police on the streets and deputies manning the county jail. MEGSI, many believe, is a luxury we cannot afford at this time.

Just hope that MEGSI can weather the storm and that we can get men back in it as soon as possible.

We also hope MEGSI will not pull out of Granite City during the interim, although it has every right to concentrate its efforts in areas which are supporting the program and providing manpower.

Drug sellers in the Quad-City area—and there are more than many people can imagine—need to know that someone is watching.

To ignore the problem may soon lead to open sales of marijuana, LSD, Angel Dust and other drugs, including heroin, just as we sat back and watched the public accept the use of drugs and smoking of cigarettes by under-age youth. The experts say it is coming, and we are letting it happen.

Without MEGSI, who is going to stop it?

Circuit clerk needs bigger, safer office space now

Circuit Court Clerk Willard W. "Butch" Portell is right in his bid to obtain bigger, safer and more adequate offices and storage areas for his busy staff and voluminous workload.

Madison County has a legal duty to provide acceptable office space, and the Third Judicial Circuit's clerical staff generates large sums of money with which to pay for it. Along with the fees that are collected for the county, state reimbursements might pay up to half the cost of new or altered facilities.

If the world was ideal, if people did not get into disputes with other persons and take them to court, there would be no need for extensive, quickly-available court records.

But in the real world there is a vast amount of criminal prosecution, divorce and family cases, child support, injury and damage suits, civil lawsuits, small claims, traffic, probate and other litigation, trials and hearings.

The circuit clerk is charged with the responsibility of maintaining a mountain of official documents, evidence, texts, lists, cards, compilations, statements and dossiers, and he does the task well. But the passage of time and the proliferation of records have made more office room essential.

We are personally familiar with the hazards and inadequacies resulting from the limited amount of space currently available to his offices in the County Court House.

Clerk Portell has been making the problems known to the Madison County Board over a long period of time. He has now filed suit against the board.

In addition, an assistant state fire marshal has inspected various courthouses and found numerous dangers and deficiencies among them an insufficient number of exits and fire-retardant devices.

Filing drawers are stacked from the floor level to a considerable height, an "elbow room" is at a premium. Efficiency is being rendered difficult or impossible. And if a disaster occurred, employees and citizens could find themselves trapped long distances from safety.

A clear and urgent need exists, and it must be resolved without further delay.

Workers paid in full

To the Editor:

As to the response of the anonymous. Those who protect us, did these people donate this 20 or 25 years. If so, we are very thankful; if not, but got paid for the 20 or 25 years they did us no favor because they would have been working someplace else. They did it for the money and they got it in full when they cashed the pay check.

Anonymous, I heard it over 1,000 pay for all the favors we get from politicians and workers on tax supported jobs what they do for us, but none of them would do a thing if it was not for the money or the prestige. Don't give us a snow job of your favors. We had enough. And as for the nice air conditioned building that we senior citizens sit around in, we helped pay for it with our tax money the same as we help pay for the protection you talk about.

As for the coffee and cookies they get and keep. Many people put money in a can to help pay for this service. When they have coffee and cookies it is self supporting. As for catered meals, the taxpayers pick up the biggest load as they do your pay check, but the senior citizen does pay part. Many of us still pay taxes to cover it all, and with our tax we pay for all services so why say you are doing us a favor. I put in 30 years at the Mill. I did them no favor. I got paid for every thing I did and was very glad. I had a good job.

As for the mayor, I knew Paul since he was a small child and I like Paul very much. We have always talked but I think eight years is enough as mayor.

Why don't you talk to Paul about me? I don't think he can say anything bad about me and even being elected for four more years, I still like Paul and would help him as much as I could for our city with no charge. Would you let me know if Paul's opponent, if offered, I would have turned it down. And last, I am never disappointed in anything as they are and make the best of them.

But get off the kick that you are doing us a favor. You are paid for every thing you do and I will sign my name.

LESTER THIELE

State wants more flexible air rules

Daniel J. Goodwin, manager of the Division of Air Pollution Control, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, told Congress last week that state air pollution agencies oppose efforts to weaken the Clean Air Act but they favor changes that would give states more flexibility in carrying out federal mandates.

Goodwin said the U.S. EPA is wasting too much of its resources second-guessing decisions made by states and not spending enough time on interstate and national air pollution problems.

His remarks were presented to the Subcommittee on Governmental Relations, Subcommittee of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee. Goodwin testified for the state and Territorial Air Pollution Program Administrators, which he serves as vice-president.

He noted that the Clean Air Act which states want corrected when Congress renews the law. The current authorization expires Sept. 30.

The requirement which causes states the biggest headache, Goodwin said, is the "double key" rulemaking procedure.

The system requires the U.S. EPA to review and either approve or disapprove any air pollution requirement adopted by a state.

The formal review process takes anywhere from six months to two years to complete. During that time, Goodwin pointed out, many companies are faced with conflicting federal and state requirements.

Goodwin and Congress that this review process greatly reduced by requiring the U.S. EPA to participate in state-sponsored hearings. A 90-day time limit for final federal action would speed the process along also, he said, and would prevent "a frequent federal practice of stalling controversial decisions."

Goodwin characterized the sought-after changes to the Clean Air Act as procedural and said state air pollution agencies do not believe fundamental changes are needed.

Rather, he commented, Congress should remind the U.S. EPA "one of the opening sentences of the law which reads, 'The Congress finds...that prevention and control of air pollution at its source is the primary responsibility of states and local governments.'"

Citizens want reform, economy

To the Editor:

During the recent session of the General Assembly, the fumbling and bumbling of Illinois legislators made our state a national laughing stock.

While our elected representatives were starting their first legislative session, and auditing for "Bozo's Circus," important issues like tax reform, utility rate relief, and ethics reform got lost in the shuffle.

Not that legislators were starting busy.

Between rounds, they found time to establish a pay raise commission (appointed by legislators) which will have the authority to give politicians big salary increases without the legislature ever having to take a vote on the issue.

Amidst all the bickering and petty selfishness in Springfield, one thing was certain: no one was fighting for the public interest.

This is why our state desperately needs a constitutional amendment for full-fledged initiative power.

The Illinois Initiative would permit voters to bypass do-nothing legislators and enact laws directly by petition and binding referendum.

Initiative lawmaking works well in 22 states across the country, including Michigan, Missouri and Ohio in the Midwest.

Illinois citizens are weary of politicians when it comes to demanding reform, and economy in government.

It's time to open the door to citizen initiative in our state to allow voters to decide on issues as well as candidates.

The Coalition for Political Honesty is petitioning now for a constitutional amendment to give the people of Illinois "the power of initiative."

Facts 'misrepresented' in report on Sedlack status, attorney says

To the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of Mrs. Louise Sedlack to inform Press-Record readers of certain false and grossly misleading statements published in your paper since Sept. 2, 1980, when an article appeared on the front page under the headline: "Thomas Mortuary Buys Sedlack Funeral Home."

According to a front page article of your July 2, 1981 issue, Mr. Thomas' attorney said: "It has never been contended by Thomas that the real estate in question was purchased." But the Press-Record article of Sept. 2, 1980, clearly stated: "The purchase of the Sedlack Funeral Home by Bob Thomas Mortuary, 2205 Pontoon Road, was confirmed today by Robert Thomas."

According to your July 2, 1981, front page article entitled "Thomas vacates Sedlack Funeral Home," "Thomas said he vacated the Sedlack facility because of pending litigation with Madison County Circuit Court."

Your article should have also reported the status of the pending litigation, that the defendant's motion to dismiss Mrs. Sedlack's suit was denied by the court. The court ruled in favor of Mrs. Sedlack on May 6, 1981, stating that: "If defendant Thomas' motion to dismiss the suit is unlawful, any damages suffered by plaintiffs would be attributable to defendant Thomas."

Your July 2, 1981 article falsely stated that the attorney for Louise Sedlack was made aware of and did not object to a Probate proceeding in which John Sedlack's executor sought approval of a contract to sell the business and to give Bob Thomas Mortuary, Inc., authority to continue to operate under the Sedlack name in the building owned by Louise Sedlack. Neither Louise Sedlack nor her attorney received any notice of the proceeding from the executor's attorney. The Probate Court records show that the executor's petition and the judge's approval order were dated Sept. 2, 1980, clearly indicating that no notices were ever sent out.

After the death of John Sedlack on June 7, 1980, Louise Sedlack gave the executor permission to occupy the funeral home until July 31, 1980, to remove the furniture and equipment. Notice to the executor was served by the sheriff's office on June 25, 1980, that the premises must be surrendered by July 31, 1980. At that time she and another party had negotiated a contract to lease the premises for 50 percent more than the $1,200 which your July 2 article stated was the fair rental value.

The executor continued to occupy the premises after July 31, 1980, and after Louise Sedlack agreed to extend the time to Aug. 31, 1980. However, on Aug. 27, 1980, without notifying Mrs. Sedlack and without prior court approval, the executor entered into a written agreement with Bob Thomas Mortuary, Inc., signed by Robert H. Thomas, president, and David Partridge, secretary, to sell the funeral business with the "exclusive use of the name of the Sedlack Funeral Home" and "the authority to operate under this name at its existing location."

On Sept. 15, 1980, Louise Sedlack filed a petition to have the executor evicted from the funeral home. The court granted her jurisdiction because the 1966 divorce decree allowed John Sedlack to rent the premises from Louise Sedlack until his death or until the building could be sold. On Sept. 4, 1980, the family court judge granted Mrs. Sedlack's petition and issued an order directing the sheriff to evict the executor within seven days.

On Sept. 15, 1980, an attorney was allowed to intervene on behalf of Bob Thomas Mortuary, Inc., and the family court judge was asked to set aside his eviction order. At a hearing on Sept. 18, 1980, the family court judge did set aside the eviction order, ostensibly because a Sept. 2, 1980, order of the probate judge purported to give Thomas Mortuary the right of possession of the funeral home.

Shortly afterwards, on Sept. 25, Mrs. Sedlack's attorney petitioned the probate judge requesting him to set aside or modify the order which the family court judge said gave the Thomas Mortuary the right of possession of the funeral home. At a hearing on Oct. 6, 1980, the probate judge said it was not necessary to set aside or modify his previous order because the order was never intended to decide that either the executor or Thomas Mortuary had the right of possession. "The probate court is not the proper forum for a decision on possession," the judge said.

Since the family court judge had based his Sept. 18 ruling on the probate judge's Sept. 2 order and the probate judge later said that order did not mean what the family court judge interpreted it to mean, Mrs. Sedlack's attorney went back to the family court on Oct. 14, 1980, and requested a rehearing. The matter was not set for rehearing until Feb. 2, 1981, when the family court judge again ruled against Mrs. Sedlack, but this time for a different reason: "doubt in his mind as to whether or not John Sedlack rented the funeral home on a monthly basis or whether he had a year-to-year lease. The judge's brief order stated: 'The court is not prepared to decide in this cause could be interpreted to constitute a year to year lease of the premises in question, but expressly abstain from reaching that determination."

After having been shunted from one court to another and deprived of possession of her property for more than six months, Mrs. Sedlack finally filed suit in Madison County Circuit Court on March 12, 1981, to have Thomas Mortuary evicted. Thomas' attorney did not respond until April 3, 1981, when he asked the court to dismiss her suit in a motion which alleged "That this matter has been litigated in both the probate and family divisions of the Circuit Court of Madison County, Illinois, and that she no longer has any right to sue."

Thomas' motion to dismiss Mrs. Sedlack's suit was finally heard on May 6, 1981, when the court ruled in her favor and against Bob Thomas Mortuary. Mrs. Sedlack's case was ready for trial but before the court set a trial date, the Thomas Mortuary, through its attorney, notified Sedlack, suddenly vacated the Sedlack Funeral Home on June 30, 1981, more than a year after John Sedlack's death.

After Thomas Mortuary moved out, it was discovered that certain letters which had been attached to the real estate were missing, including an electric funeral home license which had been removed by torch-cutting a six-inch steel pipe at ground level, and 18 large cast aluminum letters spelling "Sedlack Funeral Home" which had been anchored to the outside brick wall of the building.

Please publish this letter in order to set the record straight. Louise Sedlack was the owner of the funeral home for 18 years before the divorce. She never leased it to John Sedlack on a year-to-year basis, but rather it is to him by "misrepresentation of the facts which should have been corrected by her and her attorney in their various press conferences" as alleged in your July 2, 1981 issue. In fact, there were never any press conferences held by Mrs. Sedlack or her attorney in the Press-Record never bothered to inquire of her attorney to determine whether the information which had been fed to the newspaper was true or false. Finally, the statement in a July 9, 1981, article in the Press-Record that a motion filed in Madison County Circuit Court on July 8, "by Thomas' attorney to terminate these proceedings" deserves comment. There is no more reason to believe that this motion was allowed by the court than there was to believe that the previous motion to dismiss Mrs. Sedlack's lawsuit would have been allowed. As mentioned above, his motion to dismiss her suit was denied on May 6, 1981.

Regulatory flexibility important to small businesses

Comment by National Federation of Independent Business—The Illinois General Assembly has completed its spring 1981 legislative session. We believe the Regulatory Flexibility bill that was passed by the Assembly was the most significant legislation for small businesses.

The bill, Senate Bill 546, now awaiting the governor's signature, provides relief from overregulation for independent business firms.

It recognizes that, in many cases, regulations should not be applied to everyone in the same way. Enforcing regulations on small firms and on individuals with limited resources in the same way they are enforced on large businesses often results in vast inequities.

Because of their size, big companies have the resources to hire tax accountants, lawyers and environmental specialists. It is much easier for them to comply with regulations requiring additional equipment or modification of existing plants.

Small businesses often must do the paper work themselves and figure out the complicated legal applications. Their lack of experience or expertise in these areas often results in fines and penalties that are undeserved. And regulations requiring changes in the physical plant can put a small company out of business.

The bill requires state agencies to investigate the impact of a proposed regulation on small businesses before promulgating the rules. It requires special treatment for small firms.

This "regulatory tiering," as it is often called, means that agencies must reduce complexity or regulatory requirements, ease deadlines, simplify rules, or change the performance standards required of smaller firms.

Regulatory Flexibility also allows agencies to exempt small companies or organizations from any requirements of a particular rule.

If the governor signs the bill, agencies will be required to give small entities sufficient notice of a pending rule—by direct notification, by special hearings, or through publication of the information in publications likely to be seen by small-business owners.

The bill will greatly help small firms, saving them from having to comply with rules that are too complex or too costly. It is promulgated for a General Motors or a Caterpillar. And it can help lift the disproportionate burden of state regulations that small businesses bear.

Speeding cars endanger children

To the Editor:

We need your cooperation in erecting a stop sign, preferably a stop sign, at the corner of 22nd Street and Edison Avenue.

On the night of July 27, at approximately 10:40, an accident occurred involving an auto which hit two parked cars.

Due to the fact that there are children from ages 13 to 16 in the area, I request your indulgence in considering a stop sign at this corner.

There has been more than one reported accident due to speeding from 21st and Edison to 23rd and Edison.

Louis International Raceway is located at Highway 203 and I-70. If kids desire to drive at a racing speed, they should at least get professional advice from the United States Hot Rod Association.

Granite City streets are not designed to accommodate hot rodders. This is only one family's opinion, but please consider the health and well being of our children.

North band summer program on Monday

Members of the Granite City High School North "Marching Band From Steeler Land" will begin their three-week summer training program on Monday.

This program is for all instrumentalist and percussionist, "Steel City Belle" pom pon and "North Guard" Flag and Rifle squads. Those eligible to attend are all returning instrumentalist, pom pon and flag and rifle members, along with incoming freshmen musicians and freshmen candidates for membership in pom pon and flag and rifle.

The three-week long summer band program was moved from the traditional after-school time slot to a before school position last year and found favor with members, according to Robert D. Todoroff.

The same type program is being continued again this year.

Freshmen and new band as well as auxiliary members are to report to the GCHS North band room at 9 a.m., Monday.

Returning band and auxiliary members are to report at 10 a.m., Monday.

The first seven days will be spent learning and reviewing fundamentals of marching and equipment handling. The last three days of the second week provide individual auditions for all members.

The third week is given to preparing the half-time and pre-game football shows as performed by the "Marching Band from Steeler Land" at their fall appearances. Tuition for the three-week summer program is $12, payable at registration on Monday, at either 9 a.m. for new members or 10 a.m. for returning members.

The program is under the direction of Todoroff, band director at North High School.

For further information, interested persons may call North High School, 931-0600.

National Steel net income up

National Steel Corporation on Monday reported net income for the second quarter of 1981 increased to $19 million, or $1.02 per share, compared with income of $3.3 million, or 18 cents per share, in the second quarter of 1980.

These results were achieved despite the "significant adverse impact" of the coal strike and temporary equipment outages in June at the Great Lakes Steel Division's continuous caster and the Granite City Steel Division's hot strip mill, it was noted.

Income for the first half of 1981 was $34.7 million, or $1.85 per share. This compares with income of $10.4 million, or $0.51 per share, for the first half of 1980, which included $9.5 million, or $0.50 per share, from the sale of coal properties.

Commenting on the results, Howard M. Love, chairman and president, said, "All business segments of the corporation were profitable in the second quarter even though earnings were depressed by the lengthy coal strike and the temporary loss of production at two of our most efficient steel units."

"With the strike settled, the caster repaired, and the hot mill being brought back into production after an electrical fire, our operations will be improved. "High interest rates and the sluggish domestic economy continued to dampen consumer demand for autos and homes in the second quarter, while energy-related markets remained strong.

"Steelmaking profit margins were squeezed by competitive pressures, price discounting, and increasingly bold initiatives by foreign steel producers who seek further penetration of the American steel market to offset sagging demand in their home markets.

"We were pleased by the performance of our financial subsidiary, United Financial Corp. of California, in the second quarter.

"In the light of the dire effects of high interest rates on the savings and loan business, UFC continues to outperform the industry, which is a tribute to its management.

"National's aluminum subsidiary also posted good results—even though aluminum demand and prices remain depressed," Love said at Pittsburgh.

Sales and other income for the second quarter of 1981 totaled $1.1 billion, compared with $981.2 million in the second quarter of 1980. In the first half of 1981, sales and other income totaled $2.2 billion, compared with $2.0 billion in the first half of 1980.

Raw steel production in the second quarter of this year was 2.3 million tons versus 1.8 million tons in the second quarter last year. In the first six months of 1981, raw steel production totaled 4.5 million tons versus 4.0 million tons during the same period in 1980.

Steel shipments in the second quarter of 1981 were 1.8 million tons in the second quarter last year. In the first six months of this year, shipments totaled 3.7 million tons versus 3.3 million tons in the first half of 1980.

In May, National's Midwest Steel Division began its first commercial production of a corrosion-resistant zinc and aluminum-coated sheet called galvalume.

Initial customer acceptance of the first commercial run has been excellent, Love said. Demand for the product, particularly among manufacturers of pre-engineered metal buildings, is expected to be more than double by 1984.

In June, National Steel Service Center, Inc. (NSSC), opened its new multi-million-dollar metals distribution and processing center near Atlanta, Ga.

The modern 150,000-square-foot facility represents the largest investment NSSC has made to date in the Southeast. It now has 32 service centers covering 80 percent of the entire metal-consuming market in the nation.

Regarding the third quarter of 1981, Chairman Love said, "General business conditions remain slow, with many customer plants shut down for summer vacations.

"Due to the high cost of money, customers are keeping a watchful eye on their inventory levels and production schedules.

"Under these conditions, steel bookings for the third quarter have softened recently.

"We remain hopeful that President Reagan's economic proposals will be implemented soon so that the nation's economy can move forward."

Hartmann-Anderson

The wedding of Miss Emily Vancil Anderson and Dale Allen Hartmann, both of Murphysboro, Ill., was solemnized in an early evening ceremony at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Murphysboro on June 13.

Pastor Joe Lecker officiated at the double ring service 6:30 p.m. using the wedding rings of the bride's great-aunt Emily Anderson. Arrangements of white flowers adorned the altar and large potted palms were placed on the side steps in the sanctuary.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Varnum Anderson of Granite City, and Rivers McNeill Anderson Jr. of Vero Beach, Fla. Parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hartmann, reside in Red Bud, Ill.

For her wedding, the former Miss Anderson selected a full length gown designed with a fitted bodice, a high mandarin collar and elbow length sleeves enhanced with point de espre lace. The skirt was fashioned with three deep tiers bordered with Alencon lace.

She wore a wreath of white spring flowers and baby's breath in her hair and held an arrangement of various summer flowers in rainbow hues.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Julie A. Bismarck, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Janel Hartmann, the groom's sister.

They chose pastel blue empire style gowns dressed trimmed with schiffli lace. Both carried spring bouquets and they wore pale blue blossoms with baby's breath in their hair.

Norman Wayman attended the groom as best man. Rivers McNeill Anderson III, a brother of the bride, was the groomsmen and Robert Westbrook and Curtis Hartmann, a brother of the groom, served as ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Brown Bag in Granite City. The newlywed couple also entertained guests at an open house party on the following day.

They took a wedding trip to Silver Dollar City in the Missouri Ozarks and are now residing in Murphysboro, Ill.

Poore-Hopkins

The Rev. Dean Cripe officiated at a double ring ceremony on June 12 at the Chapel Hill Christian Church in Fairview Heights, uniting in marriage Miss Kathryn Dann Hopkins and Gregory Neale Poore.

Pink and white roses in tall vases adorned the sanctuary which was illuminated with burning tapers in branch candelabra for the 7 o'clock service. Prior to the ceremony Pam Kennedy sang, "Longer," "The Wedding Song," "Annie's Prayer," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Donald Harshbarger, 17 Lakeview Drive, and the late Thomas J. Hopkins. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Poore, 5 Helmsdale Court, Manchester, Mo.

Escorted to the altar by her stepfather, Donald Harshbarger, the former Miss Hopkins was attired in a formal white gown fashioned with an English net empire bodice accented with silk floral Venice lace, beaded with seed pearls, and long tapered sleeves and also created the tiny stand-up collar.

Her skirt of huestro knit was designed in an A-line style and trimmed at the hemline with Venice lace and fell softly into a full chapel train.

She wore a lace covered camelot cap to secure a melody length veil of bridal illusion edged in matching lace. Her bouquet was an arrangement of white cosmos, orchids and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Deborah Hopkins, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids included Karen Williams, Cathy Wright, Tammy Kinonen, Jill Kirkham and Kim Poore, the groom's sister.

They selected identical floor length gowns in pink polyester knit fashioned with spaghetti strap blouson style bodices complemented with tulle length coats enhanced with white lace. The skirts were A-line design and fell softly from the high rise waistlines.

Each attendant held a colonial bouquet of white roses intermingled with pink tiger lilies, and they wore a crown of French lilies and baby's breath in their hair.

Nephews of the bride, Tom and Todd Marshall, served as the ringbearer.

The groom chose his brother, Kelly Poore, as best man. Groomsmen were Bob Dean, Dale Wright, Dick Bailey, Doug Dennis and Tom Poore, another brother of the groom.

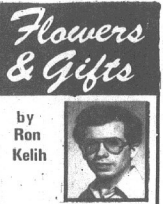

Warren Fisher and Allen Kirkham seated the guests and served as candlelighters.

Mrs. Cathy Poore, the groom's sister-in-law, registered the guests at a reception given at the American Legion Hall in O'Fallon, Ill.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Tony's Restaurant in Belleville, Ill.

Flowers & Gifts

by Ron Kelih

One of the nicest ways to display flowers is in a shallow bowl. This kind of setting is suitable with a large blossomed flower that will be attractive floating in a bowl. It is generally best to use several blossoms but be careful not to overcrowd.

Such a display is appropriate for almost any room in the house. It can be placed on the dining room table, on the piano, in the kitchen, in a bedroom or even in the bathroom.

If you don't have the appropriate flowers in your garden come in and choose some from our beautiful selection at BETTY AND BOB'S FLOWERS AND GIFTS, 2156 Pontoon Road, 677-8833. We have three custom designers to assist you including Michael Gerboe. Ample free parking is available and you'll find us located across the street from Thomas Funeral Home. Open: 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

FLOWER TIP: The right size vase is important for proper display of flowers.

"Nothing worth doing is completed in our lifetime; therefore, we must be saved by hope. Nothing true or beautiful or good makes complete sense in any immediate context of history; therefore, we must be saved by faith. Nothing we do, however virtuous, can be accomplished alone; therefore, we are saved by love. No virtuous act is quite as virtuous from the standpoint of our friend or foe as from our standpoint. Therefore, we must be saved by the final form of love which is forgiveness." These words by Niebuhr are a simple way of encompassing much of life's mystery.

More and more of life's mystery unfolds daily through learning. More people today feel the need to provide for life's final resting place while they are in a position to choose the options of their preference. MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES is available to assist in unfolding these mysteries and in explaining the available options as well as providing the means of establishing one's preferences. # Fight mosquitoes to limit 1981 outbreak of encephalitis here Accelerated anti-mosquito efforts were urged here Tuesday by Granite City Inspector Emerald Dawes and Mark Alan Carr, Illinois Department of Public Health environmental health sanitarian based at Edwardsville.

State health officials have warned that an outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis is likely to occur this summer. They are urging residents of the southern third of Illinois to take actions that will help protect them against the disease, which is transmitted from birds through the bite of the Culex mosquito, Dawes noted.

William L. Kempiners, director of the Department of Public Health, has related that blood samples were collected during the first and last weeks of June from birds at surveillance sites in St. Clair, Richland and Saline counties.

"The blood samples collected during the last week of June, when compared with those collected in the first week, indicate a significant increase in St. Louis encephalitis virus activity," he said.

Kempiners pointed out that weather conditions this year are similar to those that existed in 1975, when a statewide epidemic of St. Louis encephalitis occurred.

In 1975, there were nearly 600 cases of the disease in Illinois, with 47 deaths.

"Conditions this year — a mild winter, followed by a wet spring, a cool May, a warm and rainy June and a hot July — are favorable to the breeding of the Culex mosquito, just as they were in 1975," he said.

"Right now is the critical time to take preventive action against the Culex," in the opinion of Dr. Gary Clark, coordinator of the state health department's encephalitis surveillance program.

"These mosquitoes will begin biting people around the end of July." "We are urging community groups, neighborhood associations, scouts and other young people's groups to survey their neighborhoods to identify and eliminate potential Culex breeding sites."

"These mosquitoes breed in small puddles of still water, such as those found in tin cans, rubber tires or other backyard debris that might hold small amounts of water for 10 days to two weeks. These items should be discarded."

"Ornamental items, such as flower vases, should be emptied at least once a week."

"Drainage ditches that hold water should be cleaned to remove debris to ensure proper drainage. And low areas in the ground that hold water should be filled in to eliminate possible breeding sources."

"Door and window screens should be in good condition and tight-fitting to keep mosquitoes from entering the house."

"Individuals should use liberal amounts of mosquito repellent when going outdoors, especially after dusk. "Culex mosquitoes usually rest during the day in dark, cool, damp locations and come out about dusk to feed."

Birds are the carriers of the St. Louis encephalitis virus.

It is transmitted to the mosquitoes, which feed on birds until about the end of July. At that time, the mosquitoes change their feeding habits and begin to feed on humans, transmitting the disease to people.

Symptoms of St. Louis encephalitis usually begin 10 to 14 days following the bite of an infected mosquito.

Generally, the first symptoms include headache, high fever and muscle aches. These may be followed by severe stiffness in the back of the neck, problems with muscular coordination, and disorientation or confusion. Prompt medical attention is considered essential.

The state health department has been urging Louis encephalitis in hospitals and physicians to consider the possibility of St. Louis encephalitis in patients who display those symptoms.

In 1976, 19 cases of the disease occurred in Illinois.

In 1977, there were 13 cases, with none in 1978 or 1979, but four in 1980.

No deaths from the disease have occurred in Illinois since 1975.

Two from county among victims of Rocky Mountain spotted fever

Six cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever have occurred in Illinois so far this year. Eleven other "suspect" cases are awaiting laboratory confirmation.

According to William L. Kempiners, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, cases have occurred in a seven-year-old Macoupin County boy; a four-year-old Marion County girl; a 34-year-old man and a 39-year-old woman, both from Madison County; and a 28-year-old man and an eight-year-old boy, both from Wayne County.

"Rocky Mountain spotted fever," he said, "is a first disease that is transmitted to humans by ticks which have fed on infected wild animals such as rabbits, mice, chipmunks or squirrels."

Symptoms, which usually develop suddenly three to 10 days after the bite of an infected tick, include fever, muscle ache, headache and nausea. Patients usually develop a rash which starts on the hands, feet, arms and legs about three days after the symptoms begin. The rash later spreads to the remainder of the body. Prompt medical attention is essential and it is important that the patient tell the physician about any recent tick bites.

Those persons who are planning to spend time this summer camping or hiking in areas that might be tick-infested, can lessen the risk of contracting Rocky Mountain spotted fever by wearing long-sleeved clothing and trousers that fit tightly around the ankles, wearing high boots, leggings or socks outside trousers or legs; wearing a head covering; and using liberal amounts of tick repellent.

Any of the commonly available insect repellents which contain either diethyltoluamide or dimethylphthalate are effective against ticks. The label should be checked to determine whether the insect repellent is an effective tick repellent.

Campers, hikers, and outdoor workers should check their bodies and clothing several times each day for the presence of ticks. Children should be examined every three to four hours, especially around the scalp and back of the neck. Ticks seldom attach at once and rarely transmit infection until they have been attached for several hours.

A tick should be removed from the body with a pair tweezers, or with a piece of paper held between the fingers, by gently flipping the tick on its back, using its head as a fulcrum. Either of these methods of removal is preferable to using a lit cigarette or hot match.

Do not squash the tick; if it is infected, this could spread the disease. The best way to dispose of a tick is to flush it down the toilet or burn it in the fireplace.

Anyone handling a tick should wash her or his hands thoroughly with soap and water. The wound should be cleaned with abundant amounts of soap and water. Any of the common skin antiseptic solutions should then be applied to the tick wound. All tick bites should be cleaned and treated as there is no way to distinguish the bite of an infected tick from a non-infected one.

Kempiners asked that physicians throughout Illinois report all cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever to the local or state health department.

Last year in Illinois, 19 cases of the disease occurred, with three deaths. In 1979, there were 20 cases and two deaths; 40 cases and no deaths in 1978; 31 cases and one death in 1977.

Veterans must provide own physical exams

Answers to questions most frequently asked by veterans are given by the Veterans Administration as follows:
Q — I plan to enroll in college under the GI Bill, and the college requires that I undergo a physical examination. Can I go to a Veterans Administration hospital for this exam?
A — No. VA hospitals are not permitted to perform physical examinations. You may be given a physical examination only to determine need for treatment or hospitalization.

Q — As an eligible veteran, I am planning to be buried in a national cemetery. I also wish to have my family buried there. What must I do?
A — If you are eligible for burial, your spouse and minor children may also be buried in a national cemetery. If they predecease you, they may be buried in the same grave. You must sign an agreement to that effect.

Wet July will alter August's gardening tasks

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser
The wet July will make gardening in August a little different this year.

The principal tasks are weed and disease control in existing gardens caused by the rain and humidity.

But August is the time to work on fall gardens and many tasks can be done for greater production and enjoyment. Some of these are:

— Harvest peaches, sweet corn, tomatoes, melons, plums and other garden crops for the best in home-grown flavor and quality. Grapes, pears and apples will also be ripening in home and commercial plantings.

— Maintain the quality of fruits and vegetables by protecting the crop with sprays or dusts for insect and disease control. For instance, corn earworm infestations are high in early August, and brown rot of stone fruits is a severe problem in ripening fruits.

The sweet corn worm problem can be reduced by spraying early silking corn with carbaryl at 48 hour intervals. Brown rot of stone fruits can be controlled with benomyl, captan or sulfur treatments at 5-day intervals up to harvest.

Spray other fruits and vegetables only as needed. Most insect activity such as cabbage worms and cucumber beetles can be seen, and necessary sprays can be applied when they appear. Disease-prone crops will need the preventative fungicides.

— Sow fall vegetables such as lettuce, radishes, turnips, beets, carrots, beans, mustard, spinach, Chinese cabbage in the early days of August. Fall rains and cooler temperatures should make everything grow.

The last spray for peach borers should be made by August 16 this year. Use carbaryl (Sevin) at four tablespoons per gallon.

— Sow a crop of rye, oats or rye grass in abandoned garden areas for a green manure or winter cover crop.

— Clean up weeds in the strawberry patch and apply a DCPA (Dacthal) herbicide treatment before the fall weeds germinate in late August. Be prepared to apply nitrogen fertilizer in mid-month.

— Bud-graft any favorite tree fruit variety onto a stock tree of the same species to either perpetuate or increase the variety.

— Inspect fruit plants for mites on the underside of the leaves. Mites can cause yellowing or off colored leaves that simulates drought injury. Special miticide sprays are needed to control high populations.

— Continue training grapes and thornless blackberries to the trellis or support wires. Excessive growth can be cut back if it helps to keep the plants in bounds.

— Apple and pear trees may be pruned for growth control where it is needed. Summer pruning in late August is suggested for gaining some size-control of dwarfed apple trees.

— Make a note of weak growth or poor leaf color on fruit plants so that proper amounts of fertilizer will be applied next spring.

— Keep weeds from going to seed. Lambsquarters, pigweed, crabgrass, foxtail, purslane, and many other unwanted plants are starting to bloom, and this is followed by seed production. Weed control next year will be prevented this year.

— Cut or mow spent corn stalks, cabbage, and bean plants and other garden vegetation while it is still green. Green organic matter decomposes much quicker than dry materials, and future gardening will be easier. It also cleans up the garden area.

Q — Do I have to make a down payment on a Veterans Administration guaranteed home loan?
A — Generally speaking, if the loan amount requested does not exceed the appraised value of the home and the veteran meets the loan qualifying conditions the lender may not impose a down payment on VA guaranteed loan.

Q — I am considering taking a loan on my National Service Life Insurance policy. Will I receive a smaller dividend if I obtain a loan?
A — No. The dividends earned will not be affected by the loan.

Q — I am a veteran with a service connected disability recently re-rated for the same injury because of a change in my condition. Am I again eligible to apply for service-disabled RH insurance?
A — No. However, if during the re-rating, a new condition was rated as service connected, you would have one year to apply for RH insurance based on that new rating.

Q — My Veterans Administration check goes to my bank on direct deposit. I am moving and want to change banks. How do I get my check deposited directly to my new account?
A — Go to the new bank and complete the proper form to start direct deposit to the new facility. Do not close out your old account until the checks arrive at the new facility, since the procedure may change direct deposit from one bank to another takes about 60 days to complete.

Q — I receive compensation from the Veterans Administration for a 10 percent service connected disability and have just been informed I am eligible for a non-service connected disability pension. Will I receive two checks?
A — No. A veteran cannot receive both compensation and pension benefits based on his own service. The VA will pay you the greater benefit unless you elect in writing to receive the lesser benefit.

GC woman beaten in Collinsville

Lynda Leggett of Granite City is recuperating from injuries she suffered one week ago when she was attacked by a man she apparently caught burglarizing her car in the parking lot of the Holiday Inn in Collinsville.

Official sources said she got off work at 11 p.m. Thursday and she and a co-worker walked to their cars. When the victim did not move her car, the co-worker checked and found her lying face down on the parking lot with her feet inside the door of the car.

The victim told the other employee and a passing motorist that a black man, described as tall, about 35 years old and wearing blue jeans was in her car. He allegedly ripped her blouse, grabbed her arm and tried to choke her with her scarf.

She said she kicked the man in the stomach and he fell. She apparently fell and struck her head on the parking lot when she tried to get out of the car.

A Collinsville Fire Department ambulance took her to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where she was admitted in good condition.

Triples smash Alton

By TERRY MACKIN
of the Press-Record
ALTON — Entering a game when a loss means the end of a season would make most managers shake in their spikes. And being without the services of several players could turn the shakes into shivers.

But not Tri-City Manager Eldon Warfield.

Going into Wednesday night's do-or-die District 22 playoff game against Alton, the Triplets were less certain than the stars and a solid contact hitter. But it did not stop the late-surgings Triplets as they punished Alton, pitching for 16 hits and trounced the hosts, 9-3.

And Warfield had a reason.

"The guys out there tonight are the guys that want to play ball. A good

Set up title showdown

housecleaning is necessary to get rid of dust," Warfield said.

"We don't need guys that just want to show up at their pleasure. We proved that tonight. We don't have the depth we once had, but these guys want to win."

Some of the "guys" Warfield was referring to was Keith Burton, who pitched another gem and did not allow an earned run to the regular season North Division champs. Then there was pesky second baseman Kevin Sykes, who reached base three times with two hits and a walk. Then there was Danny Patterson who contributed a triple and a double to the Triplets attack.

And John Linhart, who clobbered a fifth inning home run to take the wind out of Alton. And Joe Schefke, who played center field for the first time in his life, but like a seasoned veteran, who had a clutch double in the seventh inning. And George Jarvis, Rick Daily, Steve Doty, Daren DePew. All contributed hits to the Tri-City cause. Not to mention John Vrenick, who continued to hit the ball solidly and hobble around the bases with a wounded foot.

"These are the nucleus of our team, and they will be the guys to get the same chance tomorrow night," Warfield said.

And it didn't take the guys long to get going.

Sykes led the game off with a single and stole second. After Linhart popped up, Patterson smacked a triple to produce the first run of the game. Daily then singled to score Patterson. DePew then forced out daily at second, but later scored on a single by center fielder Schefke, who played center because of the vacancy caused by the absence of Ford.

"I like it a lot, but I'm just glad to be playing. I'm relaxed out there and have more time to think about hitting," Schefke said.

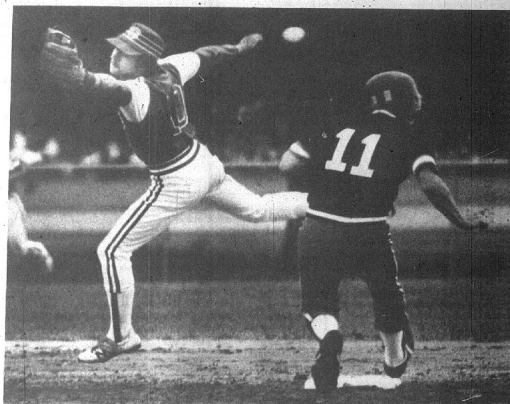

The Triplets led 3-0, but quickly added to it in the second inning on doubles by Jarvis and Vrenick. After two innings, Tri-City had built a comfortable 5-0 advantage.

In the fifth inning, Linhart smashed a fastball deep over the right field fence for another Triplet run. And in the sixth, Steve Doty collected his second hit of the season when he rifled a triple to the left field fence and later scored on a Sykes single. Doty, who was pressed into action by the disappearance of several Triplets lately, enjoyed a productive night at the plate with a double and a triple.

The only threat Alton gave Burton was in the sixth inning, thanks to some sloppy defense on the part of his teammates. Rusty Meyers led the inning off with a ground ball to Patterson at short. The Triplet shortstop made a good charging play, but a bad throw by Jarvis at first.

The Tri-City victory forces a showdown at Moore Park in Alton tonight at 6 p.m. The winner of that contest will be the North Division champ, and will play the winner of the South Division, Marissa or Belleville, for the District 22 championship.

Big Red pinches out Lomax

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
ST. CHARLES — The curly-haired rookie stepped behind the center. He barked out some signals, took the snap and faded back. The ball was never thrown. No quarterback bowled him over. It was all make believe. Practice.

Lots and lots of practice. That's what Neil Lomax and the rest of the St. Louis Football Cardinals' quarterbacks are getting at pre-season training camp at Lindenwood College in St. Charles right now.

Jim Hart is there now after signing a series of one-year contracts and ending his brief holdout. All-Pro, Former Most Valuable Player in the NFL, No spring chicken anymore, Hart will most likely be around two more years — maybe three at the most. That's why most of the fans watching Wednesday's Big Red workout had their eyes peeled on Lomax.

The Cardinals' hope for the future.

Lomax did it all in college at Portland State. He set NCAA and school records in left and right. He got a lot of ink in the media. He earned it. The Cardinals were a little surprised when he was still available when their second round pick rolled around.

They snatched him up. And he may be the key to their future. In the meantime, he'll most likely spend a season or two under the guidance of Hart, the grand old master.

"I don't mind learning from someone like Jim Hart," said Lomax. "He's one of the best to ever play the game. I'm sure there'll be a lot to learn."

Lomax arrived in training camp on time. Something Hart, wide receiver Mel Gray and number one draft choice E.J. Junior can't say.

"We came to terms we both can live with," said Lomax. "I'm just interested in playing football for the St. Louis Cardinals now."

Lomax toyed with the idea of the Canadian Football League. But not for long. "We talked with them, he said. "But I want to play in the NFL. I like St. Louis and hope we can turn things around here."

With a draft like the one the Big Red had this spring, it might not take as long to turn things around.

Lomax won't have the second-string quarterback chore sewed up, however. Rusty Lisch, the second-year pro out of Notre Dame and Belleville West will battle him tooth and nail for the position. When last season's number two QB Mike Loyd was cut earlier this week, it set up a one-on-one duel between Lisch and Lomax. "We've had three good quarterbacks in camp," said Lomax. "Rusty

Junior signs contract

ST. LOUIS (SLWN) — E. J. Junior, the St. Louis Football Cardinals' number one draft choice, yesterday signed a series of one-year contracts with the club and reported to training camp, it was announced by Joe Sullivan, Vice-President of Operations.

The 6-3, 237 pound All-America from Alabama practiced for the first time last evening after taking his physical in the afternoon.

"We reached an agreement with E. J.'s agent Sunday night," said Sullivan, "and he turned it over to the Junior family for them to look it over. It took a couple of days for them to look it over, clear up the paper work and for E. J. to drive here and sign."

"It's an agreement the club can live with and that E. J. can live with."

"I don't think the time he's missed will hurt him very much," Sullivan said. "He's a player with great ability and should be ready to go in time to play for the Cardinals."

"I'm happy to be here and ready to play for the Cardinals," said Junior after signing. "I've missed some time but I think I can make it up."

Junior is expected to compete for a starting linebacker spot this fall after playing a standup defensive end position at Alabama. He led the Crimson Tide in tackles behind the line of scrimmage the past two years and was voted to Alabama's Team of the Decade for the 70s.

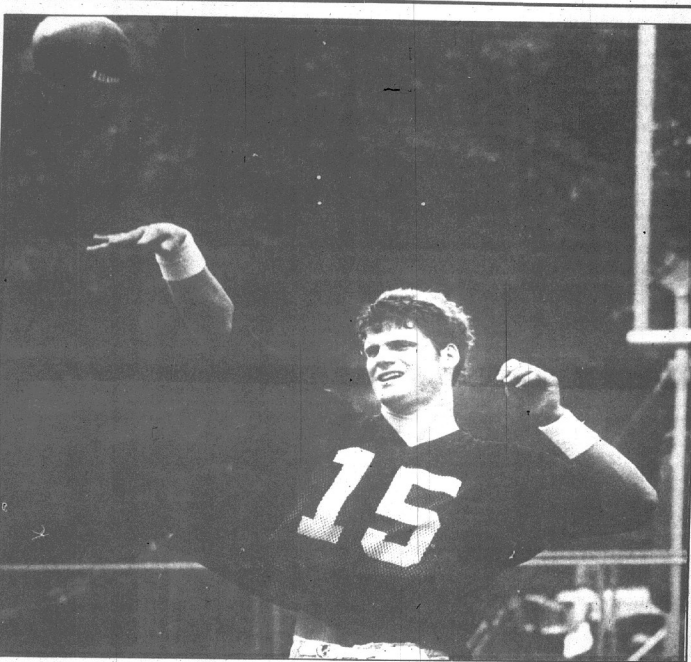

Junior's signing brings all of the club's 1981 draft choices under contract, with the exception of tenth-round pick James Mallard, who is expected to miss the season because of illness.

Lisch has got a year of pro experience under his belt and that means a lot. If you handle the pressure at Notre Dame, that says something."

All three quarterbacks will most likely see considerable action in pre-season games this fall. But the Big Red coaching staff already knows what Hart can do. In fact, there's not really much he did years ago when he was now. He never could run. That's where Lomax and Lisch come in. Lisch can run. But Lomax is a typical draft-back and is a typical quarterback.

CAMP NOTES: The Cardinals came to terms with Junior yesterday (see related story). Terms of the

BIG RED FUTURE? Rookie quarterback Neil Lomax shows here warming up at a recent St. Louis Cardinals training camp session at Lindenwood College in St. Charles, will battle it out with second-year QB Rusty Lisch for the backup spot to veteran Jim Hart. Lomax, the Cards' number two draft choice, just might be the team's quarterback of the future. He set many NCAA passing records at Portland State and was touted by scouts as one of the top signal callers in the nation last season.

Paddlers win dual

GRANITE CITY — The Paddlers swimming team from Granite City finished its regular season undefeated with a 91-31 cold-shortened victory over Montclair of Edwardsville at Paddlers Pool Tuesday.

Because the weather turned cold Tuesday and Wednesday, the water wasn't too comfortable to swim in. After 16 events, the meet was called because of coldness. No decision has been made on whether or not to complete the meet.

There were not enough events completed to count the meet as official, but team records set will count.

Despite being able to complete only 16 events, Paddlers set six team records.

Patti Martin set a record in the girls 11-12 year division 100 meter freestyle. Her time of 1:08.51 broke the old Paddlers mark of 1:09.3 that had stood since 1974.

Cindi Strotheide broke her own record in the girls 13-14 year old 100 meter freestyle. Her time Tuesday was 1:04.05. Her record set earlier this season was 1:06.87.

The rest of the records set Tuesday were by relay teams. The Paddlers girls eight-and-under 100 meter medley relay Kristy Goff, Jenny Baker, Cathy Martin and Lynn Veyling broke their own record of 2:35.60 when they combined to swim the distance in 1:34.60.

John Amisch, Phillip Valencia, Mike McCormick and David Baker combined to set a record in the boys 12 year old 200 meter medley relay. Their time of 2:35.43 broke the mark of 2:36.0 that had stood since 1975.

The Paddlers girls 11-12 girls 200 meter medley relay team also set a record. Kristy Goff, Dawn Kaminski, Patti Martin and Tonya Geske combined to swim the distance in a time of 2:32.97.

Strotheide, J'Lynn Hankins, Diane Oliver and Linda Kuberski combined to set a record in the 13-14 girls 200 meter medley relay. Their time of 2:24.49 was good enough to break the old record of 2:28.67.

NOTES: The Southwestern Illinois Swimming Association (SWISA) Swimming Championships will be Saturday, Aug. 1 at Gaslight Swim Club in Collinsville. The SWISA Novice Championships will be Saturday, Aug. 8 at Dorchester in Belleville.

Bethalto no problem

By TERRY MACKIN

of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — It was a long wait for Kevin Cripps, but it could not have happened at a better time.

After establishing himself as the Triplets hard-luck pitcher for most of the Legion season, Cripps finally earned a victory, going the distance, in Tri-City's 7-3 defeat of Bethalto in the District 22 playoffs Tuesday.

And the stocky righthander could not have been happier.

"It's about time I got a win," Cripps said after the game. "Yeah, I guess you could say that I feel pretty good."

And Cripps could have possibly been the only person that felt "pretty good" at the Granite South field. A brisk breeze sent shivers up most spines, and the lucky wore jackets. The weather was best suited for football, or soccer, or anything but baseball.

But it didn't bother Cripps. "I really like pitching in cool weather." And he must not have been alone, as the Triplets stayed alive in the double-elimination playoffs and earned the right to face Alton for the North Division championship. Bethalto was eliminated from the playoff picture, but did manage to score first.

Center fielder Larry Hawkins led the game off by getting plunked in the side by a Cripps fastball, and scored on a triple by Scott Acker. But Acker was eventually gunned down at the plate by Tri-City third baseman Rick Daily when he tried to score on a ground ball off the bat of catcher Mark Buford.

But the Triplets came right back in their first time at bat to knot the score. Second baseman Kevin Sykes led off with a walk, and then stole second. Left fielder John Linhart then smacked a triple to the left field fence to score Sykes and tie the score at 1-1.

Then in the second inning, Triplet catcher Daren DePew led off with a sharp single to left field and George Jarvis walked. DePew then stole third, and scored when Bethalto catcher Buford threw the ball into left field and Jarvis went to third. He then scored on a wild pitch by Paul Stondifer. The Triplets led, 3-1.

Larry Hawkins then hit a two-out home run for Bethalto in the third inning to tighten the score to one run, but that was the last threat posed for the Triplets. With Cripps in complete control, using a fastball and a fastball to keep the Bethalto hitters off stride, Bethalto scored only one more run in the fourth inning. But Tri-City did not quit in their third inning. Linhart led off with a walk and went to second on a wild pitch. Shortstop Danny Patterson, who has been Mr. Clutch for the Triplets all season, then pounded a single to the left field fence for a

Busch claims victory in stadium controversy

ST. LOUIS (SLWN) — Morton D. May, former chairman of the May Department Stores Company, and August A. Busch Jr., honorary chairman of Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc., have joined forces to help resolve the conflict over the purchase of Civic Center Redevelopment Corporation, including Busch Stadium, it was announced today.

May and Busch were two of the key individuals who helped create CCRC in the early 1980s. At that time, May Department Stores, the parent company of Famous-Barr and Venture Stores, invested $2.5 million and Anheuser-Busch invested $5 million in CCRC. Anheuser-Busch also gave up the concession and parking revenues at the stadium in order to put the newly-formed corporation in a position to obtain the mortgage financing necessary to undertake the redevelopment project.

May said, "I am very pleased that the May Company is in a position to work with Anheuser-Busch in an effort to resolve this situation and keep the Baseball Cardinals in St. Louis at Busch Stadium. I hope we can now put this matter behind us."

Busch said, "By coming forward in this manner, May Department Stores has again illustrated its sincere interest in the continued development and welfare of the entire St. Louis community. They stepped forward again today to help resolve this problem."

In line with the philosophy expressed by May and Busch, an agreement was entered into by Anheuser-Busch and the May Stores Foundation, Inc., whereby May has agreed to sell its holdings of approximately 25 percent of CCRC's securities to Anheuser-Busch at a price equal to that offered by Apex Oil Company, or, if a higher bid is made, to give Anheuser-Busch the option to purchase those securities at the higher price. As part of this transaction, May has agreed to take a five-year note as payment for its stock and debentures. The terms of this note involve a concession by May which makes the transaction economically feasible for Anheuser-Busch at the increased price.

Anheuser-Busch and its charitable trust together own approximately 25 percent of the CCRC securities. May's sale of its holdings to Anheuser-Busch would increase that figure to approximately 37 percent.

Anheuser-Busch will promptly submit a new proposal to the CCRC board of directors which will provide for an acquisition of CCRC by Anheuser-Busch or its subsidiary on terms which will equal the $32.4 million offered by Apex Oil Company.

May and Anheuser-Busch also are jointly requesting that CCRC call a special meeting of the CCRC directors as promptly as possible to consider Anheuser-Busch's revised proposal. Anheuser-Busch hopes that its proposal will be approved and accepted by the CCRC board well in advance of the Aug. 7, 1981 deadline in the Apex offer.

In order to negotiate this agreement with May and make a proposal to the CCRC board, Anheuser-Busch was legally required to withdraw the tender offer, which it made on June 8, 1981. Anheuser-Busch is in the process of returning the stock and debentures which had previously been tendered in response to the Anheuser-Busch offer.

Team looked familiar

NEW YORK — A total of 72 of the top young soccer players in the United States have been selected to participate in the U.S. Olympic Committee's National Sports Festival III.

The soccer portion of the 32-sport National Sports Festival will be represented by four regional teams: East, Midwest, South and West. Each team will consist of 18 players who satisfy Olympic eligibility requirements. The teams, ranging in age from 17 to 22, were selected in state and regional tryouts by USSF National Staff Coaches Nick Zlatar (East), Rick Benben (Midwest), Jay Miller (South) and Colin Lindores (West).

Soccer competition will be staged at Griffin Field.

The four regional teams will engage in round-robin competition for gold, silver and bronze medals, with the medal games.

The Sports Festival competition will be used primarily for identification and further development of future Olympians. "While the main intent is to identify our outstanding young soccer players for the 1984 Olympic Games," explained U.S. National Coach Walt Kowchewsky, "we're also hopeful of finding some players who can make our National Youth Team stronger for Australia. The Festival gives us an ideal opportunity to scrutinize our talent under 'highly-competitive conditions'."

The U.S. National Youth Team (players born after Aug. 1, 1961) will participate in the 16-nation FIFA World Youth Championship, to take place in Australia, Oct. 3-18. Included on the rosters for the festival teams are National Youth Team players Todd Saldaña, David Lischke, Al Smith, Kevin Fousner, Mark White, Brian Fuerst, Steve Savage, Chris Huchell, David Doran, Amir Aly and Tom Gardner. Pat McGauley, Joe Filla, Jim Bowen and John Bowen were each members of the U.S. Olympic Developmental Team that faced West Germany's Bavarian Amateur Selection last January in Tampa.

The U.S. Youth Team, gearing up for October's FIFA World Youth Championship in Australia, will train July 13-23 in Syracuse, N.Y. against four regional select teams that have been named to participate in the Sports Festival III.

The National Youth Team, which will be competing in the 16-nation World Youth Championship for the first time, recently played in the Dr. Joao Havelange International Youth Tournament in Mexico in June. The U.S., comprised of the elite American youngsters born after Aug. 1, 1961, also participated in the Bellinzona (Switz.) International Youth Tournament in April and Brazil's Machado Cup tournament in January.

"Facing four regional teams will be a valuable training experience for the Youth Team," said U.S. National Coach Walt Chyzowich. "At the same time, it will also help prepare the regional teams for the festival competition. The benefits of the festival have been proven in recent years."

Sports Talk

Mike Schmidt

The pitcher was flirting with danger. He knew he was in trouble as soon as the ball left his hand on its course straight for the heart of the plate. He could almost make out the smile on the face of the muscular man with the stick in his hands, who, he knew, had not eaten in days. There was the crack of the bat and the sudden cry of the crowd. All the pitcher could do, his head never turning, was nervously finger the resin bag as the small white sphere disappeared over the outfield fence.

Baseball has been played for 131 years, and with nothing on any level of the game has been found to rival the excitement and the drama of the home run — Babe Ruth pointing toward the right field bleachers at Wrigley Field only seconds before depositing a baseball there; Bobby Thomson hitting the shot heard around the world to give the Giants the pennant over the hated Dodgers; Carlton Fisk motionlessly watching as his home run stayed just inside the foul pole to keep the Red Sox World Series hopes alive for another day; Henry Aaron stalling, then eclipsing the career mark that many said would never be touched.

No single season statistic is as closely followed and as eagerly pursued as the home run mark. Baseball writers begin to chart the home run pace of today's sluggers while the cherry blossoms outside the White House are still in full bloom. In no other sport are such long distance comparisons made: to 1927 when Ruth hit 60 home runs and to 1961 when Roger Maris, abetted by an asterisk, slugged 61.

There are a number of players in the baseball today who have the ability to establish a new home run mark for future strongboys to take aim at. Their chances could very well be determined by their ability to stay healthy and by the makeup of their team.

Super Star Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies has a reputation for being one of baseball's most feared hitters. Since playing regularly for the Phillies in 1973, Mike has averaged 33 home runs a year. He's led the league in homers three times, and at only 30 years old, is likely to terrorize National League pitching for many years to come.

"You don't have to be built like Babe Ruth to be a home run hitter," said the Super Star, who is 6-foot-2 inches and is aged 195 pounds. "As Henry Aaron proved, strong wrists, a good eye and patience are the main ingredients. You can't swing for fences everytime you step up to the plate. Making contact is the important thing. If you have the upper body strength, the home runs will come."

Mike leads a rather imposing pack of long ball hitters in the National League. On his own club, Mike is often marked home for homer by Greg Luzinski. Having two genuine home run threats like Schmidt and Luzinski in one lineup helps both hitters. Pitchers can't pitch around one with the other on deck.

Dave Kingman of the Chicago Cubs is called "Kong" for rather obvious reasons. At 6-foot-6 inches, the towering outfielder brings fear to cities throughout the league. George Foster of the Cincinnati Reds and Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers are also likely to change the course of human events in any game they play in. Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates has also shown the ability to line up baseballs with some regularity.

The American League possesses its share of Supermen. Jim Rice of the Boston Red Sox is poised for 40 home runs a year. Like Schmidt, he can also count on a heavy hitting supporting cast that includes Fred Lynn, Buck Hobson and Carl Yastrzemski.

Reggie Jackson of the Yankees has hit as many as 47 home runs in one season and has twice led the league in that department. John Mayberry of the Toronto Blue Jays, Don Baylor of the California Angels and Larry Hise and Gorman Thomas of the Milwaukee Brewers are also threats to break the hearts of opposing pitchers with one quick swing of the bat.

Town police regroup

The police car formerly operated by the Nameoki Volunteer Police until it was disbanded last year will once again be patrolling the township in a week to 10 days, according to Madison County Sheriff Emil Toffant.

Toffant told the Crime Prevention Committee of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce Friday that he has reached agreement with Nameoki Township Supervisor Harry Briggs and with five township volunteers to reactivate the program and to designate the five as "reserve deputies."

He said new legislation in Illinois allows him to have reserve deputies and gives him the authority to establish such a body. "They will have the marked car. These are dedicated, good people, background checks have been run on them and they have been firearm trained. They will receive no salary," the sheriff said.

He said the volunteers have agreed to take additional training three hours a week for 10 weeks to better learn their jobs and responsibilities.

Toffant said he hopes to expand the reserve force to eight Nameoki Township volunteers in the near future. "I think this will be a deterrent to crime. Just the sight of a squad car cruising a neighborhood makes a burglar think, 'Let's go somewhere else.' Harry Briggs has been very, very cooperative and the township has agreed to release the car and pay for the gasoline. I will assume the costs of maintenance and insurance," Toffant explained.

He said the reserve car will patrol any area of the township where there is a problem. "It may stay in State Park Place for three or four days, if there is a problem there, and then I might send it to the Bend Road area near Horseshoe Lake for a few days. It will be flexible," Toffant said.

He told the committee that the car was in Troy Friday having the police radio installed. The reserve deputies will be in radio contact with the sheriff's department and with other deputies' squad cars in the area.

A similar force with 12 volunteers is in operation in Wood River Township and the results have been good, the sheriff said.

He noted that innovative approaches, such as this, are needed in order to maintain the level of service the people need. "I have lost 11 men and I am going to lose a total of 15 when it's done. 'I have a study underway preparing our next budget. I am going to ask the county board for 10 more deputies, but I don't think I'll get them.'"

He said he is having difficulty finding enough employees to man the giant new county jail and will have to pull the sheriff's department representative out of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois (MEGSI, the undercover drug team) to help with manpower shortages. "It's a necessity. I have to bring people in to operate my jail," Toffant told MEGSI Director Jim Nichols at Friday's meeting.

Toffant said few people realize the scope of the task facing the sheriff's department. He said that Madison County is the fifth largest county in the state in the number of persons in unincorporated areas. We are the largest county in Southern Illinois, outside of the Chicago area, in number of persons served by the sheriff's department," Toffant concluded.

City opposes utility hikes

Granite City officials plan to take a more active role in fighting requests for rate hikes by all utilities, the city council has decided.

Debate was sparked by notification from the Illinois Commerce Commission that Illinois-American Water Co. is seeking a rate hike. Alderman Casmer Skubish asked the council to go on record against the request and against pending telephone company rate hike requests.

He also suggested that the city attorney notify the Illinois Commerce Commission of the city's opposition to any increases.

"The general public never knows what it (a hike) is going to be. Take the 19.9 percent increase for electricity," Skubish said.

Mayor Paul Schuler agreed and noted that Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward had just learned that the cost of electricity supplied to the city, including the street lights, was going to increase between 30 to 35 percent from Illinois Power Co.

"That means, we all take a 35 percent whack by being residents of the city. I am not going to say we were sold down the river by the people who negotiated this increase, and that's exactly what it is, negotiated between the utility, the objectors and the members of the Illinois Commerce Commission."

"In the past, we have just joined with some groups in opposing rate hikes. I think we should be strongly represented at those hearings and protest," the mayor said.

The council concurred.

Steel Warehousing, Inc., buys American Sheet & Strip

Steel Warehousing, Inc., Iowa's largest steel service center, has acquired American Sheet & Strip Steel Company, Routes 111 and 162, it was announced Friday by Millie J. Horsdesky, vice-president of Combined Investment Company.

Don Blumenthal, SWI president, reported that plans for expansion and increased services are being reviewed and some steps already have been taken. Blumenthal added that, although some of the acquired firm's market area was already being served, the additional services and product lines alone should result in greater sales.

Coordinating the American Sheet & Strip local operation with the parent SWI facilities is Barney C. O'Brien, executive vice-president. He is presently increasing the sales staff, product lines and programming computer services, it was announced.

SWI, headquartered in Des Moines, Iowa, has more than 5,000 different steel products in its inventory and provides customers with one-day delivery in most cases and same-day delivery in special cases.

Negotiations for the sale were initiated and conducted by Raymond F. Kozielek of Madison, president of Combined Investment Company, who declined to release information on acquisition price or terms.

Outside judge in Portell case

Circuit Court Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell's continuing struggle to obtain more office space for his staff heated up late last week.

Chief Circuit Judge Joseph J. Barr approved Portell's request for a change of venue in his July 2 lawsuit against the 29-member Madison County Board, Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer and the board's building committee and its chairman, Charles Bode. A "foreign" judge will hear the case.

County Board members were among those touring the clerical offices last week with the veteran circuit clerk, who alleges that overcrowding creates health and fire hazards for personnel and records in the County Courthouse.

A study of possible building alterations was in progress Thursday, with various divisions of the clerk's office cooperating in identifying their specific space needs.

Discussion intensified on the possibility of constructing a new administrative building to help house the expanding county government.

The change of venue granted by Judge Barr will allow a judge from outside the Third Judicial Circuit to hear the case.

In his request for the change, Portell said he "fears and believes" he would not receive "a fair and impartial hearing and determination of any and all matters concerning said cause...if heard and determined by any of the judges of this circuit, because of their prejudices."

"The Madison County Courthouse is partially the subject of this suit and is a proper place for the trial...but it would be more properly heard by a foreign judge."

No objection was filed by the county, and the chief judge ordered that Roy O. Guiley, director of the administrative office of the Illinois courts, be asked to assign a judge to the case.

Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, legal adviser to the County Board, filed a motion asking the court to dismiss the suit.

Smith said the county government has admitted there is a space problem and that many offices are crowded.

His motion says the board "has indicated in a positive fashion its acknowledgement that there is an acute space problem."

"An earnest attempt to study and determine the space needs of all the county offices" is being made, in the form of a space analysis study, Smith said, adding that Portell was aware of the study when he filed the suit.

The dismissal motion will be referred to the trial judge once one has been appointed.

Daniel J. Stack of Highland has been appointed as a special assistant state's attorney to represent Portell, indicting that the county will be obligated to pay his costs. Smith opposes this, commenting that "we won't pay the guy. We'll go to jail first."

An inspection of the courthouse by the state fire marshal's office July 17 bore out contentions made in the lawsuit, Portell is convinced.

The building was visited by Anthony Candela, assistant state marshal, and Edwardsville Fire Captain Jerry Wade. They found 13 state code violations, and recommended installation of sprinklers, an alarm system, emergency lights and additional fire exits. They proposed fire-resistant doors for offices that open into corridors, and recommended enclosure of the two courthouse stairwells. No cost estimate was given.

The county has awarded a $75,900 contract to alter its office building, a former bank structure located across the street from the courthouse. It also has conducted a fire safety survey of the county nursing home.

Committee Chairman Bode said priority will be given to improving the nursing home, and that five years can

Willie Fay, retired society editor, dies

Miss Willie Fay, 80, of 2036A Cleveland Blvd., society editor of the Granite City Press-Record for several decades, died at 3:04 p.m. Friday, July 24, 1981, at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

She had been in failing health for the past year and was a hospital patient for eight weeks.

A Press-Record employee for 44 years, Miss Fay was a tradition at the local newspaper many years before women broke the invisible barrier into the newsman's world.

She joined the staff in 1927 and for nearly 15 years worked mostly in her own home on Benton Street, walking daily to the Press-Record office with her copy.

With the advent of World War II and the loss of several young male employees from the news staff, Miss Fay was asked to work in the office full time.

Initially, her duties at the newspaper not only included writing social items, but also helping with classified advertisements and aiding in the display advertising department.

Miss Fay was seldom away from her desk for almost 30 years until she retired in September 1971 at the age of 79.

She was blessed with an extraordinary memory and an infinite knowledge of this community and was regarded by the entire news staff as a key resource for providing background material for many news stories.

In her years at the Press-Record, Miss Fay made thousands of friends and often remarked that she "not only got them married, but also recorded the arrival of their children and their children's children."

The veteran newswoman had written third generation weddings in several families, a record matched by few society editors.

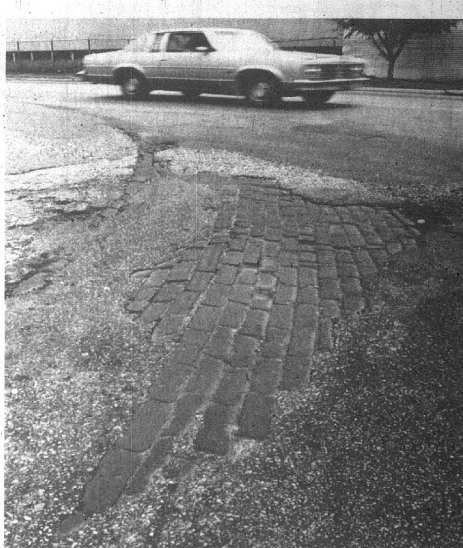

Miss Fay was born in Tennessee and had moved to Granite City as a young woman.

She was educated at St. Catherine's School for Young Women in Grenada, Miss.

Miss Fay was a member of Central Christian Church.

She had no known surviving family members, but leaves many friends, including Mrs. Maxine Dacus and Mr. and Mrs. Julie D. (Betty) Bartels, all of Granite City, and the Press-Record staff members.

Funeral arrangements are given in today's obituary column.

'OLD STREETS NEVER DIE . . .

to paraphrase an old saying, is evident at the intersection of 19th Street and Madison Avenue where old, red-brick pavement appears from time to time. Street department workers have patched the area frequently, but recent cutbacks in that department's expenditures and workers could lengthen the time between patchings. The old pavement was laid more than 50 years ago and has been paved over numerous times since.

THE BUBBLE BURST. The Bubble Gymnasium at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville fell victim to high winds which swept across the campus last week. Two students — Richard Collins and Tayua Chiwanga, both of Tower Lake Apartments — were in the gymnasium when the storm struck, but both escaped with minor injuries. University administrators were meeting Tuesday to deliberate the future of the structure which was erected in 1973 as an interim facility with a life expectancy of seven years. Construction began May 18 adjacent to the site on the University's new multipurpose building, which will include a gymnasium and swimming pool. Completion is expected to require nearly two years.

Couple asks County Board to help them regain home

By JUDY TAPLIN

In one of the most unusual requests ever to come before the Madison County board, a man and his wife are asking for help in getting their home back.

Richard and Grace Parker have lived on Route 4, Edwardsville, for about 35 years. According to their attorney, Tad Armstrong, they failed to pay their real estate taxes in 1975 and, through a series of circumstances, never knew that their home had been sold later for delinquent taxes.

The Parkers paid their taxes in 1976, 1977 and 1978. Sometime after September, 1978, when the three-year period for paying taxes to redeem their property had run out, they received a letter from the new owner. That was, Armstrong says, the first they knew that their taxes were delinquent. By then it was too late.

Armstrong says the Parkers did actually pay their real estate taxes in 1975, but that the check was returned for insufficient funds.

Mrs. Parker, who handles the couple's check writing, was unaware the check was returned, the attorney said, and she does not remember receiving a notice from her bank.

Parker is employed at Olin Company in East Alton. Mrs. Parker is a teacher in the Collinsville school district. Their home, valued at $40,000, had been completely paid for by the Parkers.

Armstrong has filed a "Section 72" petition with the circuit court in an effort to overturn the judgment which gave the tax deed to a new owner.

But he notes that the Illinois Supreme Court has said fraud has to be proved in order for a taxowner to get his property back through this method. The Parkers are not alleging that fraud is involved.

Armstrong said a Madison County judge has not yet ruled on the Section 72 petition. In the meantime, he has another proposal for the county board, involving a little-known county indemnity fund.

Counties are required by state law to have an indemnity fund for persons "who without fault or negligence" of their own sustain loss or damage by reason of the issuance of a tax deed.

Under the law, the indemnity is limited to the fair cash value of the real estate, less any mortgage or lien.

In other words, the Parkers could petition the court for $40,000 from the county's indemnity fund.

"This particular statute is not widely known because a situation like this rarely occurs. As a matter of fact, it is my understanding that this is the first time it has happened in this county," Armstrong said in a letter to the county board.

The county's indemnity fund, presently containing $85,000, comes from a $10 fee charged to each person who purchases land for delinquent taxes.

Armstrong says the Parkers have filed an indemnity suit against Treasurer Mick Henkhaus in accordance with the state indemnity law. The case hasn't been heard yet.

What Armstrong is proposing to the Madison County board is that it agree to pay Parkers $10,000 or more out of the indemnity fund.

The person who bought the Parkers' house for taxes is willing to settle the case for a total amount of $15,000, Armstrong said.

If the county paid $10,000, the Parkers would be out a total of $5,000 to get their home back.

Armstrong said he hoped the county would see fit to pay the entire $15,000, however.

A resolution to this effect was to be presented to the county board last week. However, the taxation committee asked that it be held over for study.

Armstrong says there is solid evidence that the Parkers weren't aware that their home had been sold for delinquent taxes.

The fact that they continued to pay taxes the next three years is part of this evidence, he said. The first notice of the tax sale erroneously went to Richard Parker Jr. and Mary V. Parker and was not received by the clients, the attorney said.

Armstrong said he can prove the Parkers were both at work the day a second notice was supposedly served by a sheriff's deputy June 1, 1978.

There are other notices in the county file indicating that they were returned from the post office, Armstrong said. Adding to the confusion was the fact that Mrs. Parker's mother's residence, adjacent to his client's land, was sold for taxes at about this same time, Armstrong said. But in that case, a notice was received and the property owners paid their back taxes within the three-year redemption period.

While it might appear that Mrs. Parker was negligent back in 1978 when she failed to reconcile her bank statement — and thus failed to realize that the tax bill hadn't actually been paid — Armstrong notes that in a 1976 case in Illinois it was ruled that a party need not be totally blameless to collect from the county indemnity fund.

Lenz heads plan group for region

At the July meeting of the executive committee of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, held at Rood's in Collinsville, the annual election of officers of the commission took place.

Elected to serve from July 1981 to June 1982 were Paul Lenz, mayor of Alton, as president; Gary C. Mackey, mayor of O'Fallon, vice-president; Lloyd Marcot, chairman of the Bond County Board, secretary, and Edwin Luczaj, a citizen appointee, treasurer.

SIMAPC is the regional planning commission serving Madison, St. Clair, Monroe, Randolph, Bond, Clinton and Washington counties.

Theodore Mikesell is executive director. Retiring officers are Victor Canty, president, William Magurany, vice-president, Luczaj, secretary, and Ronald Mitchell, treasurer.

The executive committee includes Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagauer, Venice, Mayor Tyrone Echols and Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk.

Youth Choral on Europe tour

Belleville Area College choral instructor A. Dennis Sparger is singing for more than his supper as he begins a tour of Europe. For the fourth year in a row, he was selected to conduct the Illinois Youth Choral on a two-week tour of England, France, Germany and the Netherlands.

The choral, composed of 45 high school and college singers from throughout the state, flew from Chicago to Amsterdam for its opening concert. Other concerts will be in Westminster, London, England; Heidelberg, West Germany; and Paris, France.

In addition to the concert schedule, the group will tour sites throughout Europe, including a cruise on the Rhine River. Participants will visit the graves of famous composers, including Beethoven, Schubert and Brahms.

The group, which dresses in red, white and blue costumes, will sing American sacred music, folk songs and spirituals.

"The European audiences especially love the spirituals," Sparger said. Much of the music is the same as that presented in a concert by BAC's Summer Community Chorus.

"It's important for the conductor to know the music backward and forward," Sparger said, noting that the choral's first rehearsal was scheduled for the day before the plane left.

A highlight of the tour will be a visit with former BAC student Andy Connor.

Connor, who graduated from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the New England Conservatory in Boston after leaving BAC, teaches near Wimbledon, England.

Choral members were chosen from students recommended by music directors throughout the state.

Educational grants rise

Governor James R. Thompson announced Friday that he has signed a bill increasing the maximum educational grants from $150 to $250 for children of deceased or totally disabled veterans.

The educational grants may be used for tuition, books, fees, room and board and supplies. The grants are available for children ages 10 through 18.

House Bill 153 takes effect Jan. 1, 1982. It currently provides grants to 2,066 children across the state. The Governor noted that the grant system became law in 1935 and the current maximum benefit level has not been raised to reflect inflationary pressures.

"I believe the State of Illinois should increase its commitment to the children of those who have sacrificed themselves in the service of their country," Thompson said.

Junior Miss contest to be held Sept. 27

The annual Junior Miss contest, sponsored by the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club, will be held on Sunday, Sept. 27, at the Washington Theater. It was announced at a meeting of the planning committee.

Committee members met in the home of Mrs. Ollie Derr, BPW Club president, to coordinate plans for an advertising book and scholarships, which will be awarded to the winning contestants.

Chairman Mrs. Emylee Alford and co-chairman, Rose Exell, presided at the session. They advised the group that the event will begin at 6:30 in the evening and they are in the process of securing a well known commentator for the evening of the program.

All contributions will be donated to scholarships as the Junior Miss affair is non profit.

The project is for girls who will be senior students in Granite City High School for the forthcoming year. They may contact Mrs. Alford at 877-5598 or Mrs. Sharold Yount at 931-4742 for further information and applications, it was noted.

Others present at the meeting were Barbara Hodges, Pearl Kennerly, Barbara Young, Regina Jones, Ruth Walk and Edith Schwaab.

1ST ELEPHANT

The first elephant arrived in the United States from India on April 13, 1796.

Evangelist to speak at Suburban Baptist

Ralph Green, song evangelist from St. Louis, will be in sacred concert at Suburban Baptist Church, Maryville Road and St. Clair Avenue, Sunday, Aug. 9, at 7 p.m.

The host pastor, the Rev. Harold Garrett extends an invitation to the public to hear the presentation of the gospel in music.

There will be no admission charge but a free will offering will be taken, Rev. Garrett added.

Mary Kane to try and resolve complaints in sewer district

Nearly 500 complaints by Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice township residents against S.M. Wilson & Co., contractor of the new Four Township sanitary sewers, are to be referred to Mary Kane, administrative assistant to Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer, to try and resolve the differences.

Most of the complaints are from homeowners whose property or streets were disturbed during construction of the new sewers and who are unhappy with the way the contractor restored the damages.

Until the properties are properly restored and the homeowners are satisfied, the county cannot give final acceptance to the sewer project and the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) will not release the final payment from the sewer grant.

"The Wilson firm is requesting final payment from the county for the construction work, but the county does not want to pay the bill until all residents are satisfied, so the sewers can be given final acceptance."

Mrs. Kane said at the last meeting of the sewer committee that she will set up a meeting with the Wilson officials to try and get the complaints resolved as soon as possible.

At that meeting, Assistant State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith, who is serving as legal counsel for the sewer committee, predicted that the monthly charge for sewer maintenance and treatment may rise Jan. 1, unless more people tap onto the system. He said 3,700 people need to be tapped on by Jan. 1 to support the cost of operating the sewer district.

The special sewer committee's new chairman, Morris Miles of Chouteau Township, accused Smith of "blowing smoke" and trying to use scare tactics to force people to tap onto the system. He said he hopes more people will tap on soon, but said he will oppose any attempt to raise the treatment and sewer maintenance fee above the $15.80 per month now being charged.

Miles said there has been growing opposition to the $15.80 per month charge.

Two capture state baton championships

Two Granite City youths captured honors at the Illinois State Champion Baton contest held earlier this month at the John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights, Ill.

Ray Yount, 17-year old senior student at North High School, won the Senior Boys Illinois State Solo Championship and will leave for Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., to compete in the National Championship set for Aug. 2.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray (Shirley) Yount, 2351 Morrison Road, he also took first place in the boys open solo.

Melissa Simpson, 6-year old contestant, won the Beginner 0-6 solo championship making her the Illinois State Champion in that specific category.

She also won first in modeling, received second awards in Fancy Strut, Basic March and Military March and a fourth in the Advance 0-6 age division solo championship.

The youngster is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry (Donna) Simpson, 4856 Warnock Ave. She attends Maryville School and is now eligible to compete in the National Championship scheduled for May in Orlando, Fla.

Other local baton twirlers who participated in the event were, Julie Jasudowicz, 10-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Shirley) Jasudowicz, Rural Route One, Granite City.

She is a student at Johnson High School and will take first place in two baton open solo contests and a second place in two baton state solos.

Patty Ryan received a first place trophy in costume modeling. The 12-year old contestant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, Rural Route One, Granite City.

Rainy weather hampers vines in area gardens

By CHRIS DOLL
Area Garden Adviser

Dying vines in muskmelons and cucumbers are most likely caused by bacterial wilt.

This disease causes sudden wilting and rapid death of plants. The other possible cause is fusarium wilt, which has similar symptoms but doesn't infect resistant varieties.

Gummy stem blight is another wilt disease that could be present on old melon soils, and insects can also cause vines to wilt or die.

Bacterial wilt is spread by the small yellow and black striped or spotted cucumber beetles when they feed on the plant. Wilt occurs a week or two later.

This means that the insect vector can be "long gone" when symptoms are seen. There is no recovery of wilted vines, so control is through preventing spread by the beetles.

Use carbaryl or malathion at five-day intervals during the growing season. Spraying or dusting should be done in the evening to prevent killing of pollinating insects.

Fusarium wilt is best prevented by planting resistant varieties such as Goldstar, Harper Hybrid, Harvest Queen, Supermarket and others that might be sold locally. As with bacterial wilt, there is no cure—only prevention.

Insect problems are the most common on summer squash this year. The culprit is the squash vine borer, a large worm that eats out the stem or crown of the plant.

As with bacterial wilt, when the wilt is seen, there is no cure for the infected plant. Prevention would be to spray or dust the base of the plant at weekly intervals.

The recent spell of hot, humid weather with rainfall permitted leaf diseases such as downy mildew and alternaria leaf spot to develop.

Leaves can be protected by weekly sprays of zineb or maneb, with the addition of a fixed copper for the powdery mildew.

Healthy foliage and vines are necessary for top quality and flavor in vine crops. Keeping them in this condition sometimes means using good cultural practices and some of the control methods listed above.

7,000 GALLONS OF FUEL OIL STOLEN

A tank truck was used to steal 7,000 to 8,000 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil this month from storage tanks at 3051 Namekiki Drive, authorities said Thursday. The owner is Kenneth Szwarczkopf of Edwardsville.

The intruder used a bolt cutter to remove locks from pumps at the oil storage facility, an investigation showed. Valves were left open and power was left on by the thief. The missing fuel oil is valued at $7,000.

Another chapter in the history of Wortman house

By KARL L. MONROE

Add one more chapter to the much-publicized history of the famous "Buster" Wortman "house with a moat" near Collinsville.

Sunday, Pan American Energy Inc., a division of Resource Royalties Inc., and Dave Croft Chrysler-Dodge hosted a summer "Moat" Festival at the site.

Dave Croft has sold the place, which he acquired last year from "Bo" Beuckman, another Collinsville auto dealer, to Pan American Energy Inc.

PAE, which has offices at 411 Mansion House Center, plans to use the property as its laboratory and pilot model of its energy development.

The company plans to build its first Solaria Power Station—it hopes by Oct. 1—to provide all the electrical, heating, cooling and water requirements of the site.

It will be a miniature of a station under development in the Midwest. C. Wallace McPherson, PAE president, said.

McPherson said some patents are pending, so he did not attempt to give complete engineering details. Over-simplified, the system consists of two ponds which create electrical energy, heating and cooling capabilities by varying concentrations of brine at different levels, and by absorption of the sun's rays in the hot lake.

The hot pond, he said, would go up to 240 degrees. The cold pond would go down to minus-40. Wind power would cool the cold pond. No heat exchangers would be involved.

McPherson said for this project, 25 percent salt brine from Salt Lake, Utah, would be shipped in, to be inserted in the pond to make it about 3 1/2 percent salt, as in the ocean.

The idea of the PAE process is to desalinate the salt water and create electricity for heating and cooling at the same time.

Initially, only the house would be served by the project. Subdivision neighbors may subsequently be offered electricity and fresh water from the system, he said.

The 14-room house, built with foot-thick concrete walls, uses about 4,000 gallons of oil in a moderately severe winter, McPherson said.

An inexpensive alternative energy source would obviously be welcome. The house has had a tremendous amount of press coverage over the years. It is backed by a 12-acre lake, planned by a previous owner, Walter Schiller, and completed by Wortman who built the house in 1958.

Wortman heirs sold the house to "Bo" Beuckman in 1971. He spent a considerable sum making it more livable but sold it to Croft last year after neighbors blocked an effort to sell it to Illinois Children's Home and Aid as a home for girls. It still resembles a school or other public institution, with its flat roof and concrete walls, as Croft freely admits.

PAE's parent company, Resource Royalties Inc., formerly headquartered in Salt Lake City, is a publicly-held company whose stock is traded on the over-the-counter market. It was recently reorganized in a stockholders meeting in Denver.

Richard Owen Laughlin, a St. Louisan, entered into an agreement to take over control of Resource Royalties. The new board of directors consists of Laughlin; McPherson; Peter B. Scott, a Denver attorney; and Robert R. Sandcock, a Clayton attorney.

McPherson said that Laughlin owns a large farm that "butts up" to Scott Air Force Base. On it he has tapped salt water at 85 feet.

Pontoon Baptist Bible School set

Vacation Bible School at Pontoon Baptist Church will be held at two separate sessions on Aug. 2 through Aug. 7, according to the school director, Ralph Croyatt.

Children age four through the sixth grade will attend sessions at 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. each day and young people in the seventh through 12th grades will attend 6 to 9 p.m. each day, the director added.

Pre-registration will be held at the church on Sunday, Aug. 2, and a parade announcing the event will take place on Saturday, Aug. 1.

be taken to work on the courthouse if gradual steps are taken to comply with fire code requirements. Portell believes action should be taken now, commenting that workers could be trapped in basement clerical offices that have limited access to the outdoors. The clerical staff operates traffic, family probate, child support, central records, small claims court and criminal court divisions at Edwardsville as well as court offices in Granite City, Collinsville, Alton, Wood River and East Alton. The suit cites state laws requiring the county government to provide and maintain adequate offices for court clerks. It relates that on May 28, June 12 and July 27, 1980, and at other times Portell requested more office space either in the courthouse or in any other building which could be leased or bought within the county. The clerk office in the 1980 fiscal year turned in $377,909 in court fees to the county general fund, and during a 12-month period ending in April 1981 assisted the state in making collections totaling $312,087. The suit asserts that "the defendants were and still are aware that the county could obtain more office space for the circuit clerk's office at the rate of one-half the actual costs, due to the reimbursement that is available through the (state) IV-D program. "It is extremely difficult and is becoming impossible to properly store court records, documents and evidence, which it is the clerk's duty to do pursuant to the laws of this state."

The families were all there with cameras clicking away. This was "Show and Tell" day for the participants in the handicapped swim program now in its seventh year. It was a happy day for all; for the participants as they demonstrated their skills and the families as they watched with pride through somewhat misty eyes. Learning to swim is so easy, right? - wrong!! Learning to swim for the handicapped is quite a challenge but well worth the effort and effort it is! Remarkable progress has been made in the handicapped swim program. Joanne Higgins, who has taught the handicapped in the Granite City School District since 1965, has been the director of this summer program, sponsored by the local Tri-City Chapter of the Red Cross, since 1975. "Swimming is a fantastic vehicle for kids in wheel chairs," Miss Higgins explained. "They can walk when they're in the water. This opens up a freedom they don't have on land. Progress can be slow. Some students are less handicapped than others, make more progress but each step - each effort - brings them closer to achieving success and when they do, it can be one of the biggest thrills in their lives." When asked why she has spent her summers since 1975 giving with these kids as well as the adults, they are special and no other word could be more appropriate. The specialness begins with a remarkable absence of social inhibitions and complex devices we are so accustomed to filtering in our more sophisticated world. Special because they have the drive, the desire and perseverance to achieve. "Although it's exhilarating and refreshing to be in the water, this is not a "play" program. Everything taught here is instructional. Blowing bubbles, making Donald Duck noises, learning to breathe under water, taking that first hesitant step into the water, all are necessary steps in gaining confidence and eventually learning to swim."

The students in the program have a variety of difficulties to overcome - deafness, cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, strokes, "that no-one teaching method can be used. Each student has two volunteers whose job it is to concentrate on him or her as much as possible. To see a child or an adult who cannot walk learn to take care of themselves in the water is a thrilling sight. Sometimes patience is the key ingredient in teaching the handicapped to swim, according to Joanne Higgins, and the volunteers have unlimited amounts of this virtue. "Words are inadequate to describe the fantastic group of volunteers. There is no way to thank them enough. They have gone the extra mile in their commitment to the program. Some of the volunteers have been in the program for five and six years, one since the inception of the program. Volunteers are from age 15 to grandmothers and to grandfathers. According to Joanne Higgins, "As long as we have people in our community like the Roger Bowler family who have so generously provided the pool facilities and this makes the fifth year they have done so, as long as we have the volunteers who yearly sacrifice their time and freedom in order to give to those who have less, and as long as there's a need for these very special people, we'll be there to fill the need."
